Air Force Will Add Five Refuel Sqdns.
In FY '56 Program; Names Other Units

Air Force emphasis on "global mobility" will be demonstrated in FY '56 by the addition of five air refueling squadrons. Augmenting previously announced plans to add 10 combat wings in FY '56 for a total of 131, the Air Force has just disclosed the expansion program also provides for 88 additional radar sites and centers and three airborne early warning squadrons.

The Air Force intends also to add nine more troop carrier assault squadrons during the next fiscal year—this buildup to be accomplished by addition of only 5000 men from the FY '55 objective of 970,000.

Disclosure that the new refueling squadrons are included in the buildup program comes on the heels of an announcement by Secretary Harold E. Talbott that the Air Force is placing "substantial additional orders" for the Boeing KC-135 jet tanker.

Total value of previous and projected orders for the KC-135 are about $700 million. First order last Fall was for $240 million.

Secretary Talbott announced that Lockheed Aircraft Corporation will be awarded a Phase I contract for the design and development engineering of an advanced jet tanker. The Lockheed proposal was described as a technically advanced tanker of "great interest." The Secretary stated that he felt the Air Force would probably want to buy one

House Group OKs Pay Raise Bill 30-0;
Senate Committee Opens Hearings 17 MarchSecDef Wilson Urges
$3600 For 4-Stars

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, with long experience in top industry management and over two years first-hand knowledge of the job done by top military commanders, thinks the latter are greatly underpaid.

As a result, it's expected the Pentagon, although rebuffed by the House, will ask the Senate Armed Services Committee to boost base pay of four-star officers by $3600 per year, with an $1800 increase for three-star generals and admirals.

Mr. Wilson told the House Armed Services Committee that the disparity in pay between top management in industry and top military commanders "is too great."

The $3600 and $1800 increases—at present base pay increases stop at two-star rank—are "entirely within reason and fully justifiable," Mr. Wilson said.

OFFICIAL PAY BILL SUMMARY, P. 811

Early passage of the military pay bill appeared likely this week as the result of three developments on Capitol Hill:

1—The House Armed Services Committee voted 30-0 to approve the recommended increases costing $745,845,015 per year.

2—Debate on the bill was due to open on the House floor (with little opposition in sight) as THE JOURNAL went to press, and

3—Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) tentatively set 17 March as the date on which the Senate Armed Services Committee will begin its consideration of the plan.

As approved by the House Committee, the measure calls for increases in base pay ranging from six to 25 per cent for members of all the Uniformed Services. It would go into effect on the first day of the month following the month in which it becomes law.

Pay increases recommended by the House Committee are slightly higher in many instances than those originally asked by the Pentagon (see JOURNAL, 5 March, for final House tables.)

Only one major deletion was made in the original bill. This involved a rejection of a provision for a 10 per cent increase in pay for members of the Reserve Component of the Armed Forces (Please turn to Page 811)

Service Wives
Get Their Say

The House Armed Services Committee, anxious to get "expert testimony" on money matters, asked a group of Service wives to give their views on the military pay bill. The wives told their story in terms all could understand—rentals, milk bills, teeth extractions, etc. Testimony highlights, Page 819.

Navy Shipbuilding Program Approved;
Places New Emphasis On Guided Missiles

DID JCS O.K. CARRIER?—NEXT PAGE

A $1,317,000,000 Navy shipbuilding program, calling for the construction of a fifth 60,000-ton carrier, three atomic submarines and a number of guided missile ships, was approved this week by the House Armed Services Committee.

The Committee backed the fiscal '56 shipbuilding plan by a vote of 34-0 after hearing testimony by Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas, VAdm. Donald B. Duncan, USN, Vice CNO, and RAdm. Wilson D. Leggett, USN, Chief of the Bureau of Ships.

In all, the program provides for construction of 24 new warships and conversion of 28 older vessels for new roles.

One of the new conventional diesel powered submarines included in the program and three new frigates "will have guided missile capabilities," Admiral Duncan said. Additionally, one light cruiser and one destroyer will be converted to guided missile use.

"We are farther along in guided missiles than a great many people know," Admiral Duncan told the Committee. He revealed that the Navy is "at the point where we are integrating them [guided missiles] into the operating forces."

Before the end of the year, the Vice CNO said, the Navy will have four cruisers with guided missile launching capabilities "in the surface to surface field." Two converted cruisers, the Boston and Canberra, both equipped to handle the Terrier missile, are due to join the fleet at the end of 1955, he added.

Also, the Admiral pointed out, the Navy has four aircraft carriers "which already have a guided missile launching and guidance capability," and nine other carriers.

THRUST AND PARRY

In the Atomic Age of super weapons, the bayonet still maintains its glistening place in the inter-service sun.

The Marine Corps, following evaluation tests at the Quantico, Va., Development Center, has decided to replace its 10-inch bayonet with the Army's 6.6 inch M-5 model.

Though shorter, the Army bayonet is designed with an inch more cutting surface on the upper edge.

The Marines say that the shorter bayonet with the stepped-up sticking power will lend itself favorably to the new "boxer's method" of bayonet fighting adopted by the Corps (THE JOURNAL 5 March).

The Army bayonet, which has been in use since January 1954, is said to be easier to handle and more durable than the one which has been used by the Marine Corps.

Meantime, the Army was asked about its possible use of the Seidler (boxer) Marine Corps bayonet system. The Army states it has examined the technique and will continue at present to use its existing method.

Gen. Bolte Goes Out Fighting For Army

General Charles L. Bolté, Army Vice Chief of Staff, who retires on 31 Apr., intends to carry to the end his efforts to alert the nation to the Army's role in nuclear warfare and to reassure Army men that "demands upon the ground soldier are increased rather than eased by the invention of new weapons."

The General sounded off last week in a speech delivered to the advanced class at the Infantry Center, Ft. Benning, Ga.

Warning that conjecture about results that can be accomplished by new weapons "tends towards simplification which, if pursued to their logical conclusion, could result in a weakening, rather than strengthening, of our defense structure," the Vice Chief of Staff said the military man "must not discard proven principles for untried theory."

A CURRENT TENDENCY which could weaken the nation's defenses, said General Bolté, "is that which minimizes the importance of the Army or the importance of the ground soldier in combat, on the theory that machines can effectively replace men to a large degree or that the employment of modern weapons can result in a war of such short duration and overwhelming destruction as to make ground fighting obsolete."

The General continued: "There are too many possible courses of action available to warring nations to warrant the assumption that war will assume one predictable form upon which military preparations should be solely based. As the President pointed out in his State of the Union Message to Congress, 'We must stay alert to the fact that undue reliance on one weapon or preparation for only one kind of warfare simply invites an enemy to resort to another.' This puts in focus the role of the Army as a member of a balanced military team—a team which is capable of responding to any military aggression as the military needs of the situation may demand."

Addressing his remarks to the young officers, General Bolté stressed the importance that "we inculcate in our men a firm faith in the importance of the Army as a vital instrument of national defense."

"As Army officers," he continued, "we should prepare our men psychologically as well as physically, and inspire them with the necessity to prepare themselves for the arduous task of fighting and winning upon any battlefield, atomic or otherwise."

General Bolté described how modern warfare places increased demands upon the ground soldier and observed that "while preparing himself for new heights of effectiveness, he must guard against the weakening fear that his capability for influencing the course of action is indecisive or unimportant."

OUTLINING THE RESPONSIBILITIES of officer leadership, General Bolté said that the tasks cannot be achieved "if the leader himself does not believe implicitly in the value of the Army as a decisive instrument of warfare and of the capability of the Army to accomplish every mission assigned."

The General added: "As long as wars are fought on land, and as long as wars are fought for possession of the land, the ground soldier will remain indispensable."

Did The JCS O.K. New Big Carrier? Adm. Radford Gives The "Answer"

During House Armed Services hearings on Navy shipbuilding plans, Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) addressed a communication to Admiral Arthur W. Radford, USN, JCS Chairman, asking about authorization of a proposed fifth Forrestal class carrier.

The Admiral told how the JCS operates and described how each Service acts to fulfill prescribed force levels.

Here is the JCS Chairman's carefully worded response:

Dear Mr. Vinson:
In compliance with your request for my comments as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff with reference to the proposed authorization of the construction of an additional Forrestal class carrier the following information is submitted.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff annually review and make recommendations to the Secretary of Defense with respect to the major forces required in the light of approved war plans. In consonance with national policy, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have recommended increased emphasis on all types of air power, including carrier striking forces. They have specifically approved an operating strength for the Navy for 1956 and 1957 of 15 attack carriers, an increase of one over the forces authorized for 1955.

It is the responsibility of the military departments to provide and maintain the forces and equipment required by the operating force levels as approved by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Secretary of Defense. It is also a service responsibility to determine the timing of procurement of new or replacement items of major equipment required to keep the operating forces adequately modern and effective.

riers which can handle air-to-air missiles for planes based aboard the flattops.

Admiral Duncan also said that the Navy has been operating a guided missile submarine in the Pacific for many months.

Secretary Thomas told the Committee "In the guided missile field the Navy is just now crossing the threshold into a field which promises to revolutionize navies as much as did the discovery of gunpowder."

He said "We foresee that as a guided missile platform, the nuclear submarine with its almost unlimited range, can appear over the horizon or emerge from the depths of the ocean, and send missiles of great destruction great distances with deadly accuracy."

The hearings brought out these facts: The Navy now has 1104 ships in commission and 1314 in the Reserve Fleet. Additionally, 118 vessels (including 35 major combatant ships) are now under construction or authorized to be constructed and 1,100 landing and other small craft are being built.

The first 60,000-ton carrier, USS Forrestal will be completed next October; the second (USS Saratoga) in February 1956; the third (USS Ranger) in June 1957; the fourth (USS Independence) in August 1958; and the fifth (USS Congress) sometime in 1959. The average estimated cost of the carriers is $193,239,000.

Admiral Leggett told the Committee that ship construction costs "have greatly increased since World War II." He said this is due to higher price levels and to technological advances which "have required the installation of more complex and costly equipment, particularly ordnance and electronics."

During WWII, he said, a typical fleet destroyer on a mass-production basis cost $7 million. The new post-war destroyer costs $31 million. However, he added, "our new ships generally have a broader mission and greater combat capabilities than our war-built ships."

Both Secretary Thomas and Admiral Duncan stressed the need for big carriers. Admiral Duncan said "the most important ship in the Navy's fiscal year 1956 shipbuilding program is the aircraft carrier of the Forrestal class." Secretary Thomas said the carrier will add to the Navy's "potent carrier weapons system which is the very foundation of our naval striking power" and without which "it would be impossible to carry out the Navy's basic mission to control the seas."

Mr. Thomas said the United States system of air bases "should be a combination of both fixed air bases, continental and overseas, and moving air bases. The fixed air bases of the Air Force are designed, and properly so," he said, "to carry out the primary mission of strategic air warfare. The moving air bases of the Navy, which are the modern aircraft carriers, serve to carry out the Navy's vital tasks and to complement the fixed bases in order to make our reprisal system varied, versatile and invulnerable."

or more prototypes from Lockheed as soon as the Phase I engineering progress warrants.

The awards followed an evaluation of a design competition which closed last Fall. On a strictly technical evaluation, it was stated, the Lockheed proposal was ahead in that it offered an advanced design in which the Air Force is very much interested. However, on total evaluation, including availability, production facilities, time element, cost, etc., the Boeing KC-135 proposal came out on top and was awarded the production contract.

The Air Force had announced on 5

Aug. 1954 the purchase of a limited number of KC-135 aircraft and has been reviewing since then alternate proposals from other manufacturers and considering the establishment of a second source of manufacturing.

Secretary Talbott said the Air Force's decision to standardize on the KC-135 was based on the fact that "establishment of a second source would not substantially speed up deliveries of jet tankers and, on the other hand, would be prohibitive in cost." This decision, he added, was based on an agreement with the manufacturers that there would be a maximum of subcontracting to manufacturers throughout the United States.

DOD ASKS CAMPUS FLYING O.K.

The Defense Department, anxious to speed up flying training and cut attrition, has asked Congress to authorize flight instruction for Army and Air Force ROTC units. The new legislation also would provide certain medical and death benefits under the Federal Employees' Compensation Act.

The Pentagon said the campus flying training would "provide a much needed incentive for development and stimulation of interest among cadets during the impressionable institutional phase."

The Department estimated that increased costs for FY '56 would be $1,850,000 for the Air Force and $165,000 for the Army, with the latter requirement to be absorbed for pending budget requests.

The Air Force would use the ROTC flying instruction to accomplish the "familiarization" and adaptability flights which now constitute roughly the first 40 hours of primary training.

Ft. Hood Div. Seen Slated For NATO

Army announcement of a plan to activate a new tactical armored division at Ft. Knox, Ky., and a subsequent comment by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson gave strong indication this week that the 1st or 4th Armored Division at Ft. Hood, Tex., soon would be designated for duty with the Seventh Army in Europe.

Here were the developments:

The Pentagon reported on 5 March that the 3d Armored Division at Ft. Knox, commanded by Maj. Gen. Gordon B. Rogers, will be converted to a combat organization. Cadre training will continue until 30 June when the 3d will receive additional personnel in increments through September to reach full strength.

Then, of course, it will be a number of months before the division is "combat ready," and thus available for overseas service.

At a news conference on 8 March, Mr. Wilson was asked if the activation of the new armored division makes likely the assignment of an armored unit to replace an infantry division in Europe.

"I think that is the plan," he replied. General Anthony C. McAuliffe, USA, Commander-in-Chief of U. S. Army Europe, has said recently that another armored division is desired to strengthen NATO forces.

It now appears that the Army will send the 1st Armored Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. William S. Biddle, or the 4th Armored Division, under Maj. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, to Europe in place of an Infantry division as part of "Operation Gyroscope."

Then, there would be two armored divisions in the U. S. and two overseas, including the 2d Armored Division.

The speeches of top Army officials during the past year forecasting added importance of armor to meet requirements of nuclear warfare are pointed up with plans for converting the 3d Armored Division.

The Army's 20 divisions during the fighting in Korea included only two armored divisions—the 1st and 2d.

Then, the 4th was activated last year. Now, reduced to a "long-haul" force of 18 tactical divisions, the Army will have at least four of them armored.

Sec'y. Stevens Names 7 Gyroscope Zi Posts

Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens has designated seven posts in the U. S. for "Operation Gyroscope" service by the end of FY '57.

They are Fts. Riley, Kans.; Lewis, Wash.; Ord, Calif.; Hood, Tex.; Campbell, Ky.; Benning, Ga.; and Bragg, N. C. Beginning in July, the 10th Infantry Division at Ft. Riley will switch places with the 1st Infantry Division in Germany to get Gyroscope under way.

Six of the posts will be home stations for two divisions each, one now in the U. S. and the other overseas, while Ft. Hood will be the home station for four divisions—two in the United States and two overseas.

Except in the case of the 1st and 10th Infantry Divisions, the Army has not identified divisions which will have the other six posts as their home stations.

The Army said identification of these other divisions must await completion of planning revisions now under study.

"Revealing this information now," the Army stated, "would indicate plans for future overseas disposition of divisions."

The Army plans some redesignations and reorganizations of existing units before the first cycle for all units to rotate under Gyroscope is completed in approximately three years.

The divisions presently stationed at the seven posts named as Gyroscope home stations include: 2d Infantry Division, Ft. Lewis; 6th Infantry (Training) Division, Ft. Ord; 1st and 4th Armored Divisions, Ft. Hood; 11th Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell; 3d Infantry Division, Ft. Benning; and the 82d Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg.

Pay Raise Bill Wins; Senate Starts 17 Mar.

tion by the Committee of a Pentagon proposal to give a further increase in pay to major generals upon the completion of more than 35 years of service.

As it went to the House floor the pay bill, officially called the "Career Incentive Act of 1955," provides:

- Increases in base pay for both active and retired personnel.
- Increases in cadet-midshipmen pay.
- Increases in per diem from $9 to $12 daily.
- Increases in flying and submarine pay.
- Increases in all other incentive-hazardous duty pay (including three new categories of personnel).
- Increases in aviation cadet pay.
- Establishment of a new dislocation allowance (an amount equal to one month's basic allowance for quarters) to be paid personnel upon permanent change of station.

During final hearings on the measure, Chairman Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.) called representative NCOs of each of the Services and three wives of career enlisted men to testify on the proposed increases.

First Sergeant William O. Wooldridge, USA, Co. "G," 3d Inf. Regt., Fort McNair, told the Committee the men in his company, 70 per cent of whom are in their first two years of service, have been giving "a lot of attention" to the pay bill and that he believes the pay raise will help to retain some of them as career personnel. A veteran of 14 years' service, Sergeant Wooldridge is married and has four children.

The Navy representative, Gilbert F. Thompson, FTI, stationed at the Philadelphia Naval Receiving Station, told the group his rating (Fire Control Technician) is in big demand in industry and that private firms are offering FT's salaries "which would put Navy pay to shame." One firm, he said, has offered him "practically double" what he now earns in the Navy. Thompson, also, is a veteran of 14 years' service.

Master Sergeant Ben M. Bullard, USAF, Andrews AFB, told the pay group he has given up flying because it costs him more than the Government returns to him in flight pay. On many flights, he related, it is necessary for crew members to stay at expensive hotels and pay the costs out of their pocket. Such trips eat up the $75 flight pay, he said, and added money as well. If the increases in basic pay, flight pay and per diem are approved, he said, he will again seek flying status. Sergeant Bullard has been in the Air Force for 12 years.

Master Sergeant Stanley G. Jacquot, USMC, Marine Corps Headquarters, told the Kilday group that one move from Parris Island, S. C., to Washington destroyed his $500 savings account. A veteran of 15½ years' service, Sergeant Jacquot is married and has four children. On the move from Parris Island, he said, his household goods did not arrive for two weeks and it was necessary to house his family in a tourist court and feed them at restaurants. The new dislocation allowance should be a help, he testified.

Lt. Col. Alexander M. Sulloway, USAF, Chief of the Airmen's Division, Tactical Air Command, told the Subcommittee that reenlistment rates are constantly dropping. He said the pay raise should alleviate the situation somewhat but that he believes there is need for "a package deal" which will also provide better housing and more adequate medical care.

In reporting the pay bill, Chairman Kilday explained how the increases were developed for the officer, warrant officer and enlisted grades; where the largest increases will go, both percentage-wise and dollarwise; and actions taken by the subcommittee to make increases for retired personnel more equitable.

Col. Erwin A. Jones, USA, has succeeded Col. John A. Carrigan, USA, as Infantry Center Staff Judge Advocate, Ft. Benning, Ga. Colonel Carrigan has been assigned to the Military Mission in Ankara, Turkey.

Text Of Kilday Summary Of Pay Bill

Here is the text of Mr. Kilday's summary of the military pay bill:

"In summary, the proposed legislation provides increases in pay for all enlisted personnel with over two years of service, for all warrant officers with over two years of service, and for all officers with over three years of service, in an amount not less than 6 per cent of basic pay.

Top Increases

"THE LARGEST PERCENTAGE INCREASE for officers is in the grades of first lieutenant and second lieutenant—22.33 per cent and 25 per cent respectively with over three years service. The smallest percentage increase for officers is in the grade of major general with less than 26 years of service with an increase of 6.07 per cent. The largest dollar increase for officers in the basic pay tables is for the brigadier general who completes more than 30 years of service where the increase amounts to $107.64 per month. On the other hand, first lieutenants with over three years of service will receive a $61.22 per month increase, while captains with over six years of service will receive a $49.92 increase per month.

"In the enlisted grades, the largest percentage increase is for the E-4 (corporal in the Army, sergeant in the Marine Corps) with over eight years of service who receives a 17.35 per cent increase amounting to $26.52 per month. The largest dollar increase for enlisted personnel is in the grade of master sergeant with over 26 years of service who receives an increase of $29.64 per month.

Pay Formula

"The pay scale is based upon a formula, taking into consideration the recommendations of the Hook Commission, the 4 per cent increase in pay enacted by Congress in 1952, and increased increments in pay periods following a normal career pattern. Under present law, an increment increase in pay is the increase authorized within the same grade for additional years of service. In the enlisted grades, these increments increase every two years, until reaching a maximum career point, or until 18 years of service. Thereafter, increments are doubled but only upon the completion of four years of service. The officer pay scale is constructed along similar lines. In the case of enlisted personnel, the increment amounts to $7.80 per month; in the case of officers the increase amounts to approximately $15 per month.

"THE PROPOSED PAY SCALES are constructed along similar lines, but in some cases increments have been increased. For example, there are double increments in pay for the E-3 who remains in service over three years and completes more than four years of service. There is likewise a double increment in pay for the E-4 who moves from over three years of service to over four years of service. There is a double increment for the E-5 who moves from over three years to over four years of service. There is a one and one-half pay increment for the E-6 who moves over eight to over ten years of service and a double increment in pay for the master sergeant who moves from over 16 to over 18 years of service. On the other hand, the E-6 who moves from over four to over six years of service receives 2½ increments at this critical point in the career pattern.

Officer Increments

"Among the officers, second lieutenants with over three years of service receive a double increment in pay and first lieutenants with over three years of service likewise receive a double increment in pay.

"Captains with over four years of service get a double increment in pay as do captains with over six years of service; majors with over eight years of service receive a double increment in pay, as do majors with over 10 years of service.

"Lieutenant colonels receive a double increment in pay with over 12 years of service, and likewise with over 14 years of service. Colonels with over 16 years of service receive a double increment in pay, as do colonels with over 18 years of service. Brigadier generals with over 26 years of service receive a double increment in pay, as do brigadier generals with over 30 years of service. Major generals with over 30 years of service receive a double increment in pay.

Senior Officers

"THE PAY INCREASE for senior officers is obviously not necessary in order to keep these officers on active duty. They have already acquired a considerable equity in retirement and obviously, except in rare cases, could not surrender this equity. But the Committee on Armed Services has been impressed with the arguments presented from many sources that young officers on active duty today are refusing to enter the Armed Services as a career because of the lack of incentive now present in the pay scales for senior officers.

"The Department of Defense originally recommended a further increase in pay for major generals upon the completion of more than 35 years of service. The Committee rejected this proposal.

Flight-Sub Pay

"The proposed legislation provides substantial increases in incentive pay for those engaged in flying and submarine duty.

"The increases amount to $15 monthly for major generals and $10 for brigadier generals, $10 per month for colonels with over 16 years of service, and $35 for colonels with over 18 years of service; $45 a month for lieutenant colonels with over 14 years of service, $65 a month for majors with over 12 years of service, $60 a month for captains with over six years of service, $40 a month for first lieutenants with over three years of service, and $35 a month for second lieutenants with over three years of service.

"IN THE ENLISTED GRADES, flying and submarine pay is increased by $30 per month for master sergeants, $32.50 for technical sergeants, $30 for staff sergeants, $27.50 for sergeants, $15 for corporals, $22.50 for private first class, and $25 a month for privates. The increases have been related to basic pay and are constructed on years of service and grade. Again, the increases are more substantial in the critical career area.

"The proposed legislation, in addition to increasing flight pay and submarine pay, also increases all other incentive pays by 10%.

Retired Personnel

"Retired personnel drawing retirement pay under the Career Compensation Act will be entitled to have their retired pay computed on the pay scales of the Career Compensation Act as amended by the proposed legislation. In view of the fact that certain officers, warrant officers, and enlisted personnel have retired for disability before completing three years of service as an officer, or two years of service as a warrant officer or enlisted man and would not otherwise receive an increase under the proposed legislation, a specific provision provides that these individuals will be entitled to retirement pay based upon the basic pay to which they are now entitled, plus a 6 per cent increase.

"Retired personnel entitled to retirement pay under laws other than the Career Compensation Act receive a flat 6 per cent increase in their present retired pay.

Dislocation Allowance

"The proposed legislation provides for a dislocation allowance for members of the Armed Services who are entitled to move with their dependents at Government expense. In view of the fact that the present reimbursement system is completely inadequate for members of the Armed Services who move with dependents, the Committee has adopted a recommendation of the Department of Defense that such members be entitled to a dislocation allowance in the amount of one month's quarters allowance if they undergo a permanent change of station. However, this allowance will only be payable for one permanent change of station in each fiscal year except for individuals who are assigned to service schools. If an additional permanent change of station is required during any fiscal year other than to a service school, the allowance may not be paid except upon a finding of the Secretary concerned that the 'exigencies of the service require more than one such change of station during any fiscal year.' The limitation with regard to only one payment during any fiscal year will not be applicable in time of war or national emergency hereafter declared since during these periods it can be expected that there will be large numbers of permanent changes of station depending upon the particular type of military operation involved.

Per Diem

"THE PROPOSED LEGISLATION also increases per diem from $9 to $12 in the case of those individuals who are entitled to such per diem allowances upon being away from a permanent duty station. This action is taken in anticipation of a similar proposal which may be considered by the Congress during this session for civilian employees of the Federal Government.

Aviation Cadets

"There is likewise a substantial increase in the proposed legislation for aviation cadets. Under present law, aviation cadets are prohibited from receiving flight pay and are limited to a monthly pay of $109.20. The Committee adopted the recommendation of the Department of Defense that aviation cadets be entitled to 50 per cent of the pay of a second lieutenant with under two years of service ($111.15 per month) and flight pay of $50 per month, when actually engaged in flying duty. The pay of aviation cadets engaged in flying would thus be increased to $161.15 per month.

Academy Pay

"The proposed legislation also increases the pay of midshipmen at the Naval Academy, cadets at the Military Academy, Air Force Academy and Coast Guard Academy. Under present law, these individuals receive $81.12 per month. Under the proposed legislation their pay will be increased to $111.15 per month.

Cost

"The proposed legislation would involve an annual expenditure for members of the Armed Services for fiscal 1956 of $734,045,571. In addition, the increase with respect to the Coast Guard, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Public Health Service for Fiscal 1956 will be $11,797,444. Thus the total cost of the bill for Fiscal 1956 will be $745,843,015."

NAVAL OFFICERS—HR 4704, Rep. Winstead (D-Miss), provides for examination preliminary to promotion of officers of the naval service.

REP. VINSON SINKS USS VINSON

A move in the House Armed Services Committee to name the fifth Forrestal-class carrier after Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) didn't get very far. During hearings on the Navy shipbuilding program, Representative James E. Van Zandt (R-Pa), a USNR captain, made a motion to name the next 60,000-ton flattop after the Chairman. The motion was immediately seconded and a chorus of members chimed their approval.

Said the Chairman, "I refuse to entertain the motion." He added that Navy vessels are named for individuals only after they are deceased. "The Committee is in a little too gay a mood this morning," he commented.

The ship, with the approval of Mr. Vinson, is to be named USS Congress. One member wanted to know if this was intended to infer "that Congress is dead."

New Job For Gen. Taylor, Stars For Two Others

The spring and summer shuffle of top Army generals gets under way on 1 Apr. when General Maxwell D. Taylor, USA, replaces retiring General John E. Hull, USA, as C-in-C of the Far East and United Nations Commands.

Lt. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, USA, 54, USMA, '20, who commanded the 7th Infantry Division in Korea before becoming Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Research in August 1952, will take over General Taylor's jobs as Commanding General, U. S. Army Forces Far East and U. S. Eighth Army.

It is anticipated that with retirement of General Hull and General Charles L. Bolte on 30 April, General Lemnitzer will be nominated for a fourth star in his new assignment.

His replacement at the Pentagon is Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin, who will be 48 on 22 March and who was graduated from West Point in 1929. He was named Army G-3 in Apr. 1954 after service as Commanding General of the VII Corps in Germany—now a three-star billet.

General Gavin is certain to be named a lieutenant general shortly. His successor was not designated immediately.

Fights Fire, Saves Lives

1st Lt. Charles Fleming, public information officer of Combat Training Command, Ft. Benning, Ga., was credited with saving a woman and three children when their home in Woodbury, Ga., caught on fire. Lieutenant Fleming, who noticed the flames while driving home late one evening, aroused the occupants, removed furniture and valuables from the burning house, and then helped fight the blaze.

Army Medical Officers Take Atom Care Course

Ten officers of the staff of the Army Surgeon General are participating in the last of a series of four postgraduate courses in "Medical Care of Atomic Casualties" at the Army Medical Service Graduate School, Walter Reed Army Medical Center. The class began 7 March.

They are: Col. Bryan C. T. Fenton, MC, Asst. Chief, Supply Division; B. Dixon Holland, MC, Preventive Medicine Division; Dwight M. Kuhns, MC, Asst. Chief, Professional Division; Arthur P. Long, MC, Preventive Medicine Division; Richard P. Mason, MC, Chief, Research and Development Division; Clement F. St. John, MC, Chief, Medical Plans and Operations Division; O. Elliott Ursin, MC, Personnel Division, and Clark B. Williams, MC, Professional Division.

Lt. Col. James T. Richards, MSC, Education and Training Division, and Maj. Harriet H. Werley, ANC, Personnel Division.

Professional personnel of the Air Force, Navy, Public Health Service, Veterans' Administration and Civil Defense are eligible to take the course under established quotas. The next series of courses will probably begin in August 1955 and, due to an "overwhelming response," will continue every two months thereafter.

Olympics-Bound

Capt. Hubert Miller, Olympic bobsledder and a member of the American four-man team which captured the world championships in 1953, will participate in the 1956 Winter-Olympics in Italy. He is assigned to the Judge Advocate General section at Ft. Dix, N. J.

Capt. Papin OIS Chief

Capt. Warren J. Papin, USAF, formerly Assistant Chief of Information Services, Air University was assigned this week to head the Office of Information Services, 3800th Air Base Wing, at Maxwell AFB, Ala. He is a graduate of the Oklahoma University School of Journalism.

Col. Charles O'Reilly USAREUR SS Chief

Col. Charles A. O'Reilly, jr., USA, has assumed duties as Chief of Special Services in the Special Activities Division of USAREUR headquarters at Heidelberg, Germany.

He succeeds Col. Howard G. Smigelow, USA, who departed for an assignment in the United States.

Colonel O'Reilly, Arty., served with the 72d FA Group in Germany before coming to his present job.

He resides in Nurnberg with his wife, the former Lillian Colgan of New York City, and three children.

Bliss To Saigon

Three Ft. Bliss, Tex., officers, Col. Arthur G. Kiel, Lt. Col. Philip R. Cibotti, jr., and Lt. Col. Maurice A. Rogers, have left for duty in Indo-China. All are assigned to the American Military Advisory Group at Saigon.

Colonel Kiel was reassigned from duty as commander of the 1st Guided Missile Group of the First Guided Missile Brigade. He had been at Ft. Bliss since July 1952, having come from the office of the acting Chief of Staff G-2 in Washington, D. C.

Succeeding Colonel Kiel as commander of the 1st GM Group is Lt. Col. John J. Guy, USA.

Colonel Cibotti, chief, plans division, G-3, at the Antiaircraft Artillery and Guided Missile Center, has been succeeded by Maj. Palmer LePlant, USA.

Third member of the departing trio, Colonel Rogers, was transferred overseas from duties as an instructor in the Special Weapons Section, Command and Staff Department of the Antiaircraft and Guided Missiles Branch of The Artillery School.

GOOD NEWS FOR CARSON

The Army has approved development of 1,000 rental units at Ft. Carson, Colo., to cost from $73 to $106 per month for one, two and three bedroom type apartments.

They will be Wherry Housing units, to be built in parcels of 500 units each.

Finance School Begins Comptroller Courses

The first in a series of six-week courses in Military Comptrollership begins 28 March at the Army Finance School, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Open to both military and civilian specialists, the courses are designed to turn out men experienced in Comptrollership methods, procedures and techniques.

Five classes will be held each fiscal year, and will include programming, accounting, budgeting, fiscal controls, funding, management, engineering, review and analysis and auditing. The second class is scheduled to run from 27 May to 1 July.

Eligibility will be limited to commissioned officers of the Regular Army and of reserve components on extended active duty and to civilians. They must be assigned or anticipate assignment as principal staff members in comptroller offices. Candidates for the course also must have two years of college level training or comparable experience in business administration, accounting, finance, economics, statistics, public administration, management or industrial engineering.

A quota of 35 for each class has been established. This will include two for each of the six numbered Armies in the United States and for each of the technical services and one each for the Military District of Washington, D. C., The Adjutant General and the Army Security Agency.

Shift Five Brigadiers

Army General School Will Close 1 May

The Army General School at Ft. Riley, Kans., will be discontinued on 1 May and its major activity, the Intelligence Division, will be shifted to the Intelligence Center at Ft. Holabird, Md.

Effective with this integration, the Counter Intelligence School will be renamed the Army Intelligence School, combining the Intelligence Division, Army General School, and the CIC School.

Since 1946, the Army General School has been used primarily to train intelligence personnel. It was established in 1892 as the Cavalry School and later as the Army Ground General School.

Two of the School's activities, the Aggressor Cadre and Sonic Effects platoon, will remain at Riley.

The Physical Training Department, the National Guard State OCS and the Department of Extension Courses, less the Military Intelligence Extension Course Branch and the Psychological Warfare Extension Course, will be transferred to Ft. Benning, Ga.

The military intelligence course goes to Holabird; the psychological warfare course, to the Psychological Warfare School at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

USN Slates New Posts For 10 Flag Officers

The Navy has ordered new duties for 10 rear admirals.

It is expected that the flag shifts will be effected during the next several months.

RAdm. George L. Russell, USN, Commander, Submarine Force, Pacific Fleet, will report to Washington, D. C., as Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Administration).

RAdm. Elmer E. Yeomans, USN, Commander, Cruiser Division Four, will assume duties as Deputy Commander, Naval Striking Force and Support Forces, Southern Europe.

RAdm. Ephraim R. McLean, jr., USN, now serving in the post slated to be filled by Admiral Yeomans, will take command of Cruiser Division Two.

RAdm. Robert Goldthwaite, USN, Chief of Staff, Commander, Joint Task Force 7, will become the new Commander, Carrier Division Two.

RAdm. Joseph M. Carson, USN, who wears three hats as Commander, Fleet Air, Western Pacific, Commander, Fleet Air, Japan, and Commander, Naval Air Bases, Japan, will take the post of Chief of Staff and Aide to Commander, Air Force, Pacific Fleet.

RAdm. Henry C. Bruton, USN, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Administration), has been ordered to assume duties as Director, Naval Communications.

RAdm. William E. Ferrall, USN, who recently donned the two stars of his rank, will become Chief, Naval Group, Joint Military Mission for Aid to Turkey.

RAdm. Ocie E. Morrison, jr., MC, USN,

RADM. LEON J. HUFFMAN, USN, reads orders naming him Commander Submarine Force, U.S. Pacific Fleet, during change of command ceremonies at Pearl Harbor. To the right is RAdm. George L. Russell, whom Admiral Huffman relieved.

Director of the Office of Planning and Liaison, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health and Medicine), will assume command of the Naval Hospital at Portsmouth, Va.

RAdm. Walter F. James, MC, USN, Thirteenth Naval District Medical Officer, will move to the Ninth Naval District in the same capacity.

RAdm. Frank Akers, USN, Commander, Carrier Division Two, will assume duties as Senior Navy Member, Weapons Evaluation Group.

Navy Offers Three Duty Assignment Options In Effort To Induce Career Reenlistments

In another move to prop up its sagging reenlistment rate, the Navy has come up with a new career inducement.

The new policy provides that men shipping over for additional tours can be guaranteed three duty assignment options.

In earlier moves to ease the critical manpower problem, described by VAdm. James L. Holloway, jr., USN, Chief of Naval Personnel, as "one of the major problems now confronting the Navy," action was taken to lower reenlistment standards and to make it easier for men to advance to the next higher grade.

Explaining the new policy, the Navy said that the offer extends to the vast majority of reenlistees, with the exception of a few ratings.

The three options are:

1. Assurance of assignment for a minimum of 12 months to duty in a fleet command having a home port on the Atlantic or Pacific Coast;

2. Assurance of a minimum of 12 months on board a fleet unit in which the individual is presently serving, except for fleet shore duty, overseas shore duty, or in non-rotated units;

3. Assurance of completion of a normal tour of duty, including shore duty. This guarantee, however, applies only to personnel who are serving in an activity or command which has an allowance for his rating and where a normal tour has been prescribed.

Women reenlistees will be assured assignment in one of four choices of continental District commands.

RAdm. J. S. Russell Takes Oath As Chief of BuAer

RAdm. James S. Russell, USN, was sworn in as Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics at a Pentagon ceremony in the office of Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas on 4 March.

Admiral Russell relieved RAdm. Lloyd Harrison, USN, Deputy Chief of BuAer, who has been acting as Chief in the absence of RAdm. Apollo Soucek, USN, presently undergoing treatment at the Bethesda Naval Hospital, Md.

Before reporting to his new post, Admiral Russell was Commander, Carrier Division Five, which operated during the recent evacuation of the Tachen Islands.

RED CROSS AWARD—Mr. K. C. Lattimer (left), Director of Red Cross Field Service for North Carolina, recently presented a certificate of appreciation to the Marines and civilian personnel of the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. Frank C. Croft, Commanding Officer of the Marine Corps Air Station.

RAdm. Malone Heads Div., RAdm. Ryan Moves West

RAdm. Ralph W. Malone, DC, USN, has assumed duties as Assistant Chief for Dentistry and Chief of the Dental Division, Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

An enlisted man during WWI, the Admiral participated in the Kwajalein and Truk campaigns while serving aboard the USS New Jersey in WWII.

He relieved RAdm. Daniel W. Ryan, DC, USN, who served in the post since 1 February 1952. Admiral and Mrs. Ryan plan a drive to the West Coast where he will serve as Inspector, Naval Dental Activities, Pacific Coast. En route they plan to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Glenn Evans.

Admiral and Mrs. Malone, the former Miss Martha Rogers of Greenville, Tenn., reside at 4201 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C.

1st Div. Starts Arriving At Pendleton 18 March

The first wave of returning members of the 1st Marine Division is scheduled to arrive at Camp Pendleton, Calif., on 18 March from Korea.

An advance party has been at the West Coast Marine Base for the past several weeks making preparations for accommodation of the Division. The first echelon of the Division will be made up of about 5,500 officers and men.

Presently commanded by Maj. Gen. Merrill B. Twining, USMC, the 1st has spent nearly 12 of the past 14 years in overseas combat zones.

At the conclusion of the Korean War, the Division had amassed a total of 42 Medals of Honor and 214 Navy Crosses. The total number of decorations awarded the Division for Korean service is 24,034, including the fifth Presidential Unit Citation.

USMC Sqdn. 324 Breaks Maneuver Flying Record

Marine Attack Squadron 324 has set a new record for the most hours flown in a month—during maneuvers—according to Headquarters, 3dMAW, based at MCAS, Miami, Fla.

Led by Capt. Richard E. Hemmingway, USMC, who posted 90 hours in the air during a 22-day period, the entire Squadron accumulated 2408.9 air-borne hours. The daily average is 114.7 hours.

The Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. Kenneth L. Rousser, USMC, flew the record-breaking missions while providing close air support for Marine ground troops undergoing amphibious assault training in Puerto Rico.

NAVY'S XFY-1 TAKES OFF AND LANDS ON A DIME

Here's a new kind of aircraft for America's aviation arsenal...the Convair XFY-1, a vertical takeoff, delta wing Navy fighter. Powered by a turbojet engine, it is one of the world's fastest propeller driven planes.

The XFY-1 is as responsive as a hummingbird over a rose bud. It rises nose-up like a guided missile...flies like a fighter at speeds beyond 500 mph...hovers motionless...darts forward, and sideways...backs down on its tail to a feather-light landing.

This remarkable aeronautical achievement is another result of Convair's engineering for the maximum degree of performance...the Nth degree of air power...

AIR FORCE PREPARES 1000 PROMOTIONS

The Air Force will release on 15 March the names of approximately 820 majors selected for temporary promotion to lieutenant colonel and about 290 lieutenant colonels named for temporary colonel.

First promotions to these ranks also will be announced at that time.

Previously, the Air Force released the names of more than 2000 captains selected for temporary major and over 5000 first lieutenants chosen for temporary captain.

During FY '56, which begins 1 July, the Air Force plans to make about 6000 promotions to temporary captain and roughly 2275 to temporary major.

There will be 930 boosts to lieutenant colonel and 290 to colonel during the 12 month period starting 1 July, according to present plans.

516th 'Copter Group Activated At Stewart

The Eighteenth Air Force helicopter program has been expanded with the activation of the 516th Troop Carrier Group, Assault, Rotary Wing.

The 516th Group was activated 8 March at Stewart AFB, Tenn. It includes three squadrons, the 345th, 346th and 347th, all based at Stewart.

The 644th Troop Carrier Squadron, a part of the 314th Troop Carrier Wing at Stewart, will be deactivated, and its personnel, equipment, and aircraft reassigned to the new group and squadrons.

The Eighteenth Air Force has two other Rotary Squadrons, the 309th with the 63d Troop Carrier Wing at Donaldson AFB, S. C., and the 310th with the 464th Troop Carrier Wing at Pope AFB, N. C. Both squadrons fly H-19's.

325th Fighter Group

The 13th annual convention of the 325th Fighter Group will be held 29-31 July in Detroit. Further information can be obtained from E. G. Fraser, 2433 Mortenson Blvd., Berkley, Mich.

Capt. Heinton Heads Crew Cited by SAC

The Strategic Air Command's January crew-of-the-month title has been awarded to a B-47 crew commanded by Capt. John W. Heinton, USAF, of Pinecastle's 321st Bomb Wing for handling of an in-flight emergency during a recent SAC exercise in French Morocco.

Other members of the crew are Capt. Steve A. Marcinko, USAF, copilot; Capt. Jerome W. Lass, USAF, observer; and A/IC Maurice W. Denton, crew chief.

Flying in a five plane B-47 formation over Sidi Slimane at night, both pilot and observer gyrosyn compasses and OMNI receivers of the B-47 became inoperative. Radar returns were so poor that even land-water contrast could not be detected.

The crew began its descent, and at 19,000 feet entered an overcast where it lost contact. During the letdown, GCA had no success in establishing radar contact. However, the observer managed to contact Port Lyautay and an estimated distance to Sidi Slimane was determined.

Visual conditions were reached at 2,500 and a normal landing was made without further incident.

Pilot-of-the-Month

Safely landing an F-84F after a mid-air explosion which tore two large holes in his plane's front nose section, ruptured hydraulic lines, and sheared the nose gear shrink strut assembly, earned Capt. Doyle W. Flowers, USAF, of Dow's 506th Strategic Fighter Wing, SAC's January pilot-of-the-month honors.

Maintenance Man-of-the-Month

A/2C Gerald R. Hildebrandt's contribution to quality maintenance in Loring's 42d Bomb Wing earned him SAC's January maintenance-man-of-the-month title.

Airman Hildebrandt, making a "technical order compliances" for the installation of taxi-lights in B-36 jet pods, an estimated 60 man-hours job, accomplished the task in 20 man-hours. His suggestions saved a minimum of 40 man-hours per aircraft and 1,000 direct man-hours for his bomb wing.

Air Force Cautions Families On Travel; Urges Patience For Official Call Receipt

The Air Force's expanded concurrent travel program for personnel and their dependents is being retarded because individuals are mistaking availability dates in their PCS orders for port calls, the Pentagon reports.

Air Force officials urge dependents who plan concurrent overseas travel not to leave for ports of embarkation until they receive the official call from the port commander. Many individuals have been put to unnecessary travel and subsistence expenses through this oversight.

Since last August, the Air Force has authorized concurrent dependent travel to additional overseas areas. The two types of concurrent travel, automatic or by approved advance application, are determined by the availability of government housing and private rentals in the overseas area.

Advance application may be made for concurrent travel to continental Europe and adjacent areas, Hawaii and Bermuda. Automatic concurrent travel is now open for the Caribbean Air Command and three stations in the Alaskan Air Command.

For those areas where concurrent travel may be authorized by approved advance application, the individual makes his request through his base commander as soon as he is assigned overseas.

In the event the request is approved by the overseas commander where the individual will be assigned, the following actions will be effected before he and his family can proceed:

1. PCS orders are written and include authorization for concurrent travel of dependents by name, age and sex.
2. Base commanders forward a passport authority letter to the military member. Military member insures that his dependents make application for passport within five days after receipt of authority letter.
3. Military member completes five copies of DD Form 349 (request for movement of dependents). Base commander attaches copies of PCS orders and copies of approving message from the overseas commander to the Form 349. The DD Form 349 is distributed by the base commander in accordance with Hqs USAF messages on concurrent travel.

The same procedure is necessary to effect automatic concurrent travel with the exception that approval of the overseas commander is not required.

Air-Res Record Center Completes First Year

The Air Reserve Records Center, Denver, Colo., completed 1 March its first year of operation as a single centralized unit for the administration of personnel records for Air Force officers and airmen not in active military service. The Center is commanded by Col. James T. Quirk.

Functions of the Center include appointments, promotions, separations, retirements, classification and assignment actions and reserve statistical services. It also is the primary source of statistical information vital to mobilization planning by Headquarters, Continental Air Command and Air Force Headquarters.

This compact, light-weight rocket powerplant, designated by the U.S. Air Force as the LR63-AJ-1 liquid-propellant rocket, has been successfully flight-tested on the Republic F-84F airplane. Used for assisted-takeoff, this powerplant and its big brother, the YLR45-AJ-1, which was extensively flight-tested on Boeing's B-47B Stratojet during 1954, have proved the practical application of rocket power to piloted aircraft.

Pay Action Speeded. There is gratification in the Services over the alacrity with which the House Committee acted upon the pay bill and moved it on to the floor of the House and at the Senate Committee's now having set 17 March as the date to begin their consideration of the plan.

The non-partisan character of the measure is evidenced by the unanimous (30-0) vote of the House Committee in approving the strengthened bill as recommended by the Kilday Subcommittee. It is also shown by the manner in which Representative Kilday (D-Tex) and the Committee Chairman, Representative Vinson (D-Ga), worked with and were supported by the minority members under the experienced leadership of Representative Short (R-Mo). If this same spirit can be carried over into the Senate, satisfying results may be expected.

Senator Russell's decision to begin hearings next week is a heartening one. As now drafted there are no retroactive features in the measure, so that it will not become effective until after it has been passed and approved by the President. Every delay takes money out of the budgets of Service families.

Need More Doctors — Dentists. Congress should act promptly on the Defense Department request for authorization and funds for a program of medical and dental scholarships to help fill out the depleting ranks of the medical services of the Armed Forces.

There is now a shortage of approximately 2,300 regular doctors in the three Services. A comparable situation exists as to dentists. These shortages are computed on the basis of existing ratios between these professional men and the total number of men in Service. Moreover, all three Services have filed official recommendations with the Department of Defense contending that the ratios are too low and should be increased to provide the degree of care needed.

The Department of Defense's plan would permit the sponsoring of scholarships in the medical and dental schools whereby those graduating would be obligated to serve on active duty for specific periods based on the number of years their scholarships were sponsored. So great is the shortage that the Department estimates 10 years as the minimum operating period under which the plan would catch up with Service needs.

The present shortage bears heavily on Service families, many of whom are now being denied needed care, and this in turn adversely affects decisions of career personnel to remain in service.

Following the reports of the first Hoover Commission an intense, organized and well-financed campaign was conducted by the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report to bring about the adoption of its recommendations, including that which would have taken most hospitals and many of its personnel from the Armed Services. A like campaign may be expected shortly to support the new recommendations which were reported in last week's JOURNAL.

To ward off this pending attack and to show the country its determination to support adequate medical care for members of the Armed Services and their families, Congress should act promptly on these new recommendations of the Administration and the Department of Defense.

Navy Shipbuilding Program. It is a tribute to the clarity and logic of the presentations made by Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas, Vice Admiral Donald B. Duncan, and Rear Admiral Wilson D. Leggett, that the House Armed Services Committee endorsed next year's program of shipbuilding by a unanimous vote of all members present (34-0).

Forrestal class carrier is the only large new vessel to be laid down), but it is a needed step in a long range program to keep the sea-going armed service up-to-date. In fact, the total new funds asked for shipbuilding in the next fiscal year is only $1,317,000,000.

Secretary Thomas pointed out that the Navy is "just now crossing the threshold into a field (guided missiles) which promises to revolutionize navies as much as did the discovery of gunpowder." To make use of this great potentiality

30 Years On the Reverse Slope

Editor, THE JOURNAL:
Now, date of rank, time in grade, and length of service too
Mean bars, and leaves, and eagles, or even stars for you
But those of us who plod along behind the hump, but hope
That most of you will fade away and smoothen out the slope

It isn't too important to move from rank to rank
But it does slow down the overdraws so often at the bank
The added prestige seems to help, as you go from day to day
But the major point still stands alone. It's the increase in the pay

It seems every time the Pentagon publishes a list
We find ourselves, as usual, unqualified and missed
It's getting so we'd welcome a passover or two
Just to be considered, it's so long overdue

Of course it's all just temporary, and we'll all revert some day
They said that 10 years ago and still insist we may
We swear, and stew, and sweat each and every Journal page
But there's nothing we can ever do, we're under grade in age

The old retired colonels just nod their heads and smile
They were 17 years a captain and say "Stick around awhile
Everything comes to him who waits and weathers out the storm"
But to retire as a captain is not why I was born

When the roll is called up yonder, of those who also ran
I'll bet there'll be another hump, and promotions will be banned
There's sure to be a place reserved, at the bottom of the pile
For the poor lost souls who did their time, and stayed around awhile.

Recognize the Individual

Editor, THE JOURNAL:
It was recently stated that chiefs of three out of the four major military arms attributed inadequate reenlistment rates to poor morale caused by low pay and inadequate housing. The chief of the fourth arm said in effect, "No sweat."

True it is that low pay and inadequate housing are major obstacles to a stable personnel structure. One can scarcely avoid feeling, however, that the chief of the fourth arm had found and eliminated a greater obstacle.

American troops are God's first gift to a commander—and to a service. They need only a sense of belonging, and this they get in too small a measure. The Services are Big Business—the individual officer or enlisted man is felt to be simply an inescapable bump on the road to Efficiency.

The real needs, common to all men, for recognition as an individual, for being necessary, and for being supported by one's service are superficially and disparagingly treated.

Give us a service which values its men for what each one can do and develops each according to his potential. Give us a service which knows its men by name instead of by number.

We do need general instead of limited service people, and it is admittedly more difficult, takes more man-hours of work and costs more money to consider people individually rather than as groups of building blocks. However, had we been allowed to solve their problems on an individual basis, we would not recently and wastefully have lost an outstanding provost sergeant of 22 years service; we would not have lost a motor maintenance supervisor with 20 the new program includes the laying down of one guided missile submarine, three guided missile frigates, and the conversion of a light cruiser and a destroyer into guided missile vessels. Also provided is a new atomic radar picket submarine, and to further enable the Navy to help in the new plan of Continental Air Defense the conversion program includes 12 radar picket escort vessels and four ocean radar station ships.

With jet laden carriers, atomic propelled vessels, and sea going guided missile platforms the U. S. Navy represents a sizable chunk of the armed might we are depending upon to deter aggression and keep the peace.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—The Quartermaster Corps recently sent an American brewery representative overseas to determine whether breweries in captured and liberated territory might be put into operation to supply beer for the armed forces. The representative has reported that the extension of battle lines has created acute shipping and transportation problems in making American canned beer available and that the limited supply of malt, hops, and grits available to European breweries produces an inferior product. He has proposed that ingredients be shipped from the United States rather than beer.

50 Years Ago—Because of the failure of the outgoing Congress to pass either the bill to reorganize the government of the Panama Canal Zone or the joint resolution extending until the termination of the new Congress the system under which the Zone is now governed, the United States authorities have had to go back to the administration of President Polk for a precedent to help them out of a dilemma.

90 Years Ago—The second inauguration of Mr. Lincoln as President of the United States, and, by consequence, as head of its Armies and Navies for the four years to come, consummates a remarkable event in the war. Simple as it appeared to us, the unexampled quiet and the almost unexampled unanimity of the November ballot, happening in a crisis when, more than ever before, the habitual quarrels and brawls of election day might have been expected, will serve to point a moral for the future historian.

years service; and still others would not now be looking for civilian jobs.

Increased pay and adequate housing are important. Besides, the lack of them makes a very convenient whipping boy. But they aren't the main answer. The service chief who says "no sweat" on reenlistments seems to have learned that it is men, not money, that counts.

S. D. KELSEY

Opposes Air Transportation of Newspapers

Editor, THE JOURNAL:
Re the letter published in your issue of 22 Jan, signed "Major, Inf., USA" and headed, "Closer to Home" . . .

. . . his comments are provincial, juvenile for an officer in the United States Armed Forces, and most certainly so sad as to be amusing!

Since when does an officer (or man, for that matter) go overseas and expect not to feel ". . . lost . . . isolated . . . far from home"? And to say that the "worst rub" is inability to receive freshly printed, last minute news in the hometown newspaper is pathetic . . . and gives no credit to the "Stars and Stripes" newspaper publication and news radio broadcasts. This service newspaper is available nearly everywhere in Europe and costs five cents.

He does have his family with him. That is one of the big burdens of expense carried by the U. S. taxpayers, so that officers and men of the Armed Services overseas may have this boost in morale.

Surely when the Major recovers from his homesickness, he will realize the folly and unnecessary expense that such an arrangement (air transportation of his newspapers overseas) would be to the taxpayers.

A NAVY OFFICER'S DEPENDENT WIFE

Secretary Dulles Clarifies U. S. Attitude Toward Defenses In Far East

PROMPTLY on his return from a Far Eastern journey touching seven nations and including attendance at the Bangkok meeting of the Manila Pact nations, Secretary of State Dulles made to the President his detailed report of performance and prospects, and then laid the situation before the American public in a lucid recital. It did not "tell all" with regard to what will happen at Matsu and Quemoy, but it had the great virtue of explaining why it could not tell all, and thus avoiding those seeming implications of what we would do, which had been present in earlier official discussions of our serious dilemma.

This transcendently important issue of defense-method was dealt with by Mr. Dulles in this manner: the United States has been faced with the necessity of making two decisions—first the political decision as to what to defend, next the political-military decision as to how to defend. The first decision is already made and supported by Congress (to use the United States armed forces to defend Formosa and the Pescadores). The second decision will be made in the light of circumstances which are largely fluid, and to meet the exact requirements as of a given time.

This reasoning is as clear as it is sound, and in all truth the simple statement of fact should have been made in January rather than in March in order to discourage the unfortunate speculation which has raged for weeks over precisely what the United States is going to do about the coastal islands which remain in Chiang Kai-shek's hands to this day, notably the Quemoy and the Matsu groups. A large faction in America was so sure, from earlier official expressions, that those islands would be defended by us in force (which inevitably would call for heavy action against Red mainland bases) that a suggested retreat from that position had seemed intolerable to a great many disturbed Americans.

The speech of Tuesday night provided the public (at home and abroad) with a good deal of information in excellent perspective. Again and again it made clear America's dominant desire, which is for a peaceful settlement. Some of the Secretary's remarks on that point are worthy of repetition:

"The United States, in the interest of peace, has made great sacrifices and has shown great restraint. That is nothing for which we should feel ashamed. Indeed, it is something in which we can take pride. But we must remember that the free nations of the Western Pacific and Southeast Asia will quickly lose their freedom if they think that our love of peace means peace at any price. . . . That nonpartisan action (by Congress in response to the President's request) did more than any other recent act to inspire our Asian friends with confidence in us. . . .

"We have power that is great. We have a cause that is just. I do not doubt that we have the fortitude to use that power in defense of that just cause."

These statements of principle were accompanied by statements of fact whose disturbing character is undeniable. Thus, Mr. Dulles stated without equivocation that the Chinese Reds appear determined to challenge both "the deterrent power of the United States and our willingness to use that power." The Reds' use of force, we are assured, will be met by far greater force. Moreover, the Reds must be recognized as a unit, so that a "minor" aggression in the south must be countered by our own retaliation, not only in the south but in the center and north, and not necessarily in a "minor" way. Up to now we have conspicuously erred in letting the Reds pursue their all-over aim in a piecemeal manner, concentrating on Korea, then on Vietnam, then on the coastal islands, never in a manner to force us into the general war for which Red China is hopelessly unprepared, save by geography.

It is worth remembering that one large value of Nationalist possession of the coastal islands was related to this exact contingency. That is, if the Reds should move aggressively to the south, those islands would serve as ready-conditioned stepping stones for a counter-move against Fukien province. The fact is that the islands are extremely useful right now, under the new thesis, as a deterrent to Red action in old Indo-China or in Korea, a strategic consideration of which no wise military planner can be ignorant.

Subversion in the south, it is recognized, is the greater peril at the moment, and the Reds have pursued their aim in defiance of the armistice, as in Korea. This the Bangkok conference recognized, and Mr. Dulles noted methodically that the Manila Pact is concerned with defending Southeast Asia not only against aggression from without, but against subversion, and against a stagnant and discouraging economy. The first must be taken care of "largely" by mobile allied power (the United States' contribution being mainly of sea and air power, as at present) and it is important to note Mr. Dulles' remark (as Secretary of Defense Wilson also has curtly pointed out in other words) that our forces now are equipped with "new and powerful weapons of precision which can utterly destroy military targets without endangering civilian centers."

In England, Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden on that same day bore witness to America's peaceful desires, many times manifested. With a blissful unconcern over what may some day happen to another and vastly richer coastal island named Hongkong, Sir Anthony urged a withdrawal of Chiang Kai-shek's forces from Quemoy and Matsu, as a necessary concession in a compromise for the sake of peace. He did not mention the concessions which Red China would make in exchange. But it is apparent that, in long range policy, Washington and London are in some respects not far apart.

THE House military pay committee got out of the mumbo-jumbo of legal terminology last week and into an area which all Service families know and understand.

Chairman Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex) called three young Service wives to testify on the proposed pay hike. The ladies, all wives of NCOs, were effective witnesses.

They told the pay group what the raise means in terms of milk for the children, commissary purchases, shoes for the family, and moves to new stations. They also threw in a few licks about medical-dental care and housing.

Mrs. Lydia Bell, wife of SFC Lewis S. Bell, Fort Myer, Va., explained that the raise means $27 [pause] "and 61 cents" to her family. As she added the "61 cents," Congressmen and spectators chuckled. Mrs. Bell smiled and added wistfully, "Those pennies count." The Congressmen sobered up to their task and gave Mrs. Bell their undivided attention as she made other cogent points.

Mrs. Joyce Brockman, wife of Edward B. Brockman, PNI, on duty at the Bureau of Naval Personnel, said the $23.40 increase which her husband would receive under the pay raise plan may enable them to open a savings account. "It will mean we can go out and buy a pair of shoes once in a while without thinking first of what the baby needs." Asked how many children she has, Mrs. Brockman, an expectant mother, also garnered laughter with her reply: "One and one-half."

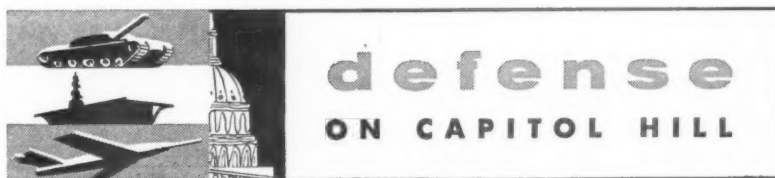

Mrs. Faith Stoughton, wife of M/Sgt Cecil W. Stoughton, USAF, stationed at the Pentagon, told the committee that their $28.39 pay increase will "almost pay the milk bill." The Stoughtons have four children and the milk bill averages about $30 per month. Mrs. Stoughton said she sometimes baby-sits at night to supplement the family income. She related the fact that she had to sell her piano while the family was getting settled in Washington, and assured the pay group that the new dislocation allowance will come in handy in the future.

Here are extracts of the questions asked the three Service wives and their answers:

MRS. LYDIA A. BELL

Chairman Kilday—We will now hear from an Army wife, Mrs. Lydia A. Bell. What is your husband's name, Mrs. Bell?

Mrs. Bell—Sergeant, First Class Lewis S. Bell, 7011 ASU, Fort Myer Headquarters.

Mr. Kilday—How long has he been in the service?

A—Eleven years.

Q—How long have you been married?

A—Seven years, sir.

Q—Do you have any children?

A—Two.

Q—Where do you live?

A—We live south of Alexandria on Richmond Highway in Nightingale Trailer Court.

Q—You live in a trailer?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—How long have you lived in a trailer?

A—Seven years, since we have been married.

Q—Ever since you were married. Do you know what this bill would do for your husband's pay?

A—I know that we would have a raise of $27.61, I believe it is. And those pennies do count.

Mr. Arends (R-Ill.)—Do you always talk that quietly at home, Mrs. Bell?

A—Maybe if I weren't so nervous it would help. No, I believe I talk a bit louder at home to be heard by my two children.

Mr. Kilday—Do you feel that that would be of considerable assistance to you towards your living expenses and what not?

A—I believe it would help, yes, sir. We can't make ends meet now on our present pay, with our bills and expenses and so on.

No Dental Care

Q—How about medical and dental care? In the seven years that you have been in the Army, has it always been available?

A—No, sir. It has not. We have had medical care, except while my husband was overseas and we, of course, went back home and I had to pay for it then. And our budget, of course, didn't allow for that and it was a bit hard at times. The dental care has not been available. In fact I had to have my teeth pulled in May by a civilian dentist.

Q—How does it happen that medical and dental care has not been available?

A—Well, at times it is available, when they have enough dentists in the Service to take care of the men. Of course they come first. Then the dependents are second. And now, I believe possibly we can obtain dental care now. I think it is one day a month that the dependents are allowed to go to make appointments and then their appointments are possibly three months in advance. In fact, I have a twenty dollar bill this month or possibly $30 for my son. I am taking him downtown because he needed attention.

Q—Then it works out that sometimes it is available and sometimes it is not?

A—That is right, sir.

Q—And is it true that it is so frequently unavailable that you can't depend on it?

A—That is right, sir.

Q—And that it actually cannot be taken into consideration as being constantly available service as an incident to your husband being a member of the Army?

A—It isn't constantly available.

High Cost Of Moving

Q—When you move with this trailer, who pays for that?

A—We do. Or, our parents have. We still owe them for the last two moves. We did have to have our trailer towed, and for 400 to 600 miles it runs expensive. We have a pet peeve if I might state myself on it.

Q—That is what we want.

A—We, in the service and in trailer life, have found that in regular moving, the normal serviceman is entitled to have his household equipment moved. They are allowed so much. It is moved by the Government, packed and so on. Well, of course, ours go with us, and we feel that if we could receive the amount equal to what it would cost the government to move our material it would help us in the expenses of moving our trailer.

Mr. Kilday—Of course, there is a bill pending here, it is not in this bill, but there is a separate bill pending which would recognize that as a proper expense of permanent change of station. Now, as to the availability of commissaries and post exchanges.

Mrs. Bell—Well, we live approximately 12 miles from the post, and with two children I can't often keep the car to go. My husband usually brings home the groceries that we find are cheaper at the commissary. Quite often we find that they aren't cheaper in a number of things that we use.

Mr. Blandford (Committee Counsel)—They are not cheaper?

Mrs. Bell—That is right.

Few Items Cheaper At Commissary

Mr. Kilday—Isn't it a fact that there are just some few items that you find are cheaper at the commissary so you read the ads and pick out what you are going to buy at the commissary and what you buy at the supermarket?

A—I don't often read the ads. I try to. But we do go to the supermarket often.

Q—How many changes of station have you had since you have been married?

A—When we first enlisted we moved from Ohio to Georgia, then from Georgia to Kentucky, when he went overseas. He was in Korea a year and a half. Then from Kentucky to here. Now that is how many?

Mr. Kilday—Three.

Mrs. Bell—Three.

Mr. Kilday—Three changes of station in seven years?

Mrs. Bell—Yes, sir. I believe that is due, in my case particularly, to him being in the type of work that he is, because I know that friends around us seldom stay in one place longer than a year.

Q—What is your husband's specialty?

A—Administrative.

Discuss Leaving Service?

Mr. Blandford—Have you and your husband discussed on occasion, Mrs. Bell, the possibility of leaving the service?

Mrs. Bell—Well, yes, I feel that . . . Sometimes we think we could do better outside, in industry, with the benefits that they have.

Mr. Blandford—Among the other wives in the trailer court in which you live, do you think that among those that you probably know who are going to leave the Army, that the passage of this bill might induce them to stay in the Army?

A—Some few, sir. Particularly the ones that are brought in for the two years, drafted.

Q—You think some of those might make a career of the Army?

A—Might. I have a brother in the Air Force who is considering it very seriously.

Q—If we enact the legislation that will give them an adequate income so that they can at least have some semblance of a reasonable standard of living?

A—Yes. But the fact that we don't get raises in comparison with industrial personnel makes you stop and think quite often if you couldn't do better otherwise.

Mr. Arends—Mrs. Bell, approximately what is your husband's take-home pay?

A—$332.

Other Items Important

Q—These other items such as moving, and proper dental and medical care, are they important to you as even the pay raise might be?

A—They are very important, sir. The pay raise will help.

Q—I have always had the impression that so many people were concerned about the medical and dental care and proper housing and so on and so forth that to them it, too, had to be considered in order for them to be satisfied—not completely satisfied—but

Mrs. Bell—I think it would have a lot of bearing on the fellows enlisting. Although in comparison to the pay raise with industry, I think that it is definitely needed, also.

Mr. Wilson (R-Calif.)—Mrs. Bell, do you recall how much allowance you get: basic allowance for quarters?

A—For a sergeant first class with the years we have; I believe $96.

Mr. Wilson—$96. Are you aware that this

MEMO For Journal Readers

CURRENT ARMY SPECULATION is that Gen. Gruenther, seen certain as the next CofS, may be called to Washington by the President this spring, instead of summer, to serve a short familiarization "tour" as Vice CofS. Gen. Bolte retires on 30 April from the No. 2 spot. It's explained that such a procedure, aside from taking care of any interim Vice CofS problem, would (1) assure an orderly transition of Army leadership and (2) promote continuity at the JCS level.

UNDER SUCH A SET-UP, it's explained, Gen. Ridgway would have ample opportunity to "fill in" his prospective successor on all Army matters, while Gen. Gruenther also would be involved in JCS deliberations prior to taking over as CofS. Problems relating to top-level assignment changes, which are inevitable when a new "Chief" takes over, also would be reduced.

ANXIOUS TO STRENGTHEN ITS RESERVE, the Air Force is disappointed over Defense Dept. refusal to authorize 48 paid drill periods for Mobilization Assignees—as asked twice—instead of the present 12. Another problem which is causing concern is the difficulty in obtaining joint use of municipal airfields for reserve flying training.

A QUIET DEATH is anticipated for the Hoover Commission scheme to eliminate all free hospital care for military families in the U. S. However, the Commission's report sets up another obstacle in the path of the President's plan for expanded family medical care, using both military and civilian facilities. A stand-off may result; but proposed reduction of medical officer strength plus closing of hospitals, will mean less care for Service dependents.

CHAIRMAN VINSON of the House Armed Services Committee, pleased over brightened prospects for Congressional approval of the fifth Forrestal class carrier, is a bit disappointed over selection of the name for the fourth of the 60,000 ton carriers. She will be called the USS Independence. The Chairman had been championing the name "USS Kitty Hawk."

THERE'S FERTILE SOIL for an inter-Service controversy in Mr. Vinson's request to the Navy for complete cost data on what it costs to build, equip, and maintain a Forrestal carrier, including support ships. He wants to compare this information with reported costs of operating an Air Force base. Whatever the differences over defense theory, this dollar and cents proposition will keep both Services on a fiscal alert.

ALMOST A YEAR after such a step had been recommended to him by Deputy SecDef Anderson (then SecNav), SecDef Wilson said this week he probably will appoint a civilian committee to advise him on problems regarding U. S. POW's in Communist hands. It was on 21 April 1954 that creation of such a committee was recommended by Mr. Anderson at conclusion of the Court of Inquiry for Colonel Schwable, USMC. On 27 April, Mr. Wilson said he would take the proposal "under advisement."

AN INTER-SERVICE COMMITTEE subsequently was appointed by the SecDef to report on the POW problem. This group also urged appointment of a civilian group, observing that the matter has wide ramifications, possibly requiring action in the fields of education and legislation.

HARD-HITTING SAC, whose powerful commander, Gen. LeMay, is able to make wheels turn, has come up with a new wrinkle to promote economy and efficiency. Starting 1 April, military personnel of SAC will be able to collect cash—with a $100 tops—for management improvement suggestions.

DURING RECENT MONTHS, there has been much talk about getting Congress to O.K. use of appropriated funds for cash awards to servicemen—the same as is now done for civilians. But SAC doesn't plan to wait; it will use non-appropriated funds. The base that does the best job will win $1000 for its central welfare fund. Gen. LeMay and his aides are certain savings will far exceed expenditures.

THE AIR FORCE HAS PLUGGED several years for cash awards to uniformed personnel. The Army and Navy have been less enthusiastic.

SECDEF WILSON, now in his third year at the Pentagon, continues to believe that JCS members should be appointed for two-year terms, with a reappointment option. He said at a news conference this week that he didn't want the rumor to go out that "the two year term is a maximum anyone can have, but two years at a time is all right." Asked if there was any significance in the fact that some of the present JCS tours are for two years, others for unspecified terms, as in Gen. Ridgway's case, the Sec'y said all were intended for two years.

SOCKED WITH NEGATIVE PUBLICITY during the past year as a result of such matters as the Peress Case and heavy manpower cuts, the Army this summer will have a chance to cash in big on a story loaded with personnel significance and personal appeal.

THAT'S THE START of "Operation Gyroscope," the new unit rotation plan. It will be surprising if the Army does not take full advantage of its opportunity and invite newsmen to accompany elements of the 10th Infantry Division from Ft. Riley, Kans., to Germany, and then to return with soldier families of the 1st Infantry Division. Chances are good that the switch will command nation-wide magazine attention, as well as big coverage in the dailies.

THE INTERNAL PUBLICITY on Gyroscope already is paying off with promise of further dividends. Army leaders believe the unit rotation plan, coupled with the reup bonus and pay raise prospects, accounts for the upsurge in reenlistments. As a result, it appears likely that divisions going overseas will have well over 50% RA men. That means increased combat effectiveness, greatly reduced turnover costs.

SERVICE CONJECTURE that a Navy admiral might be assigned to Gen. LeMay's SAC Hdqs., as is the case at Gen. Chidlaw's CONAD Hdqs., has been scuttled by Mr. Wilson. He told a news conference that offstand he doesn't see any reason for it, added that the "circumstances are different" in the two commands. Chances are, however, that those members of Congress who are concerned about maximum utilization of all strategic airpower may raise questions concerning lack of high-level Navy representation at SAC.

How to ADD INCOME FOR RETIREMENT

With the purchasing power of the dollar at about half what it was ten years ago, it is reasonable to assume that the dollar you save today may have value fluctuations in the future.

Many civilian and service personnel are preparing for extra retirement income to help compensate for a possible decline in dollar purchasing power through the regular purchase of Mutual Fund shares . . . Funds comprised of dividend paying securities. And doing it out of current earnings.

As our company has counseled thousands of civilians and service personnel, we are well aware of the important problem of supplementing fixed-dollar savings for extra retirement income. Let us help you get started on the way to a more sound financial future. For complete information, just mail a postcard with your name and address for our free booklet, "The Modern Way to Invest."

SERVICE FAMILY NOTES

MRS. Arthur W. Radford and Mrs. Robert B. Carney were among those who presided at the tea table Sunday afternoon at the Arts Club, when Mrs. Ruth Perkins Safford, wife of Capt. L. F. Safford, USN, held an exhibition of paintings—"Portraits of Interiors."

Mrs. Singletary Is Guest—

Miss Florence King, daughter of Adm. and Mrs. Ernest J. King of Washington, had as her weekend guest recently, Mrs. William Calhoun Singletary, wife of Lt. Commander Singletary, USN, of Norfolk, Va. Preceding a dance at the Army-Navy Country Club one evening, Miss King entertained at a buffet supper, honoring Mrs. Singletary, who is the daughter of Capt. (MC USN-Ret.) and Mrs. William L. Irvine.

Armed Forces Hostess Association To Honor Mrs. Wilson—

The members of the Armed Forces Hostess Association will celebrate the sixth anniversary of the organization, on 29 March, with a luncheon, at the Crystal Room of the Naval Gun Factory. Honor guest for the occasion will be the wife of the Secretary of Defense, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson. A fashion review, arranged by Miss Patty Mailfield, will follow the luncheon.

This volunteer group of Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine and Coast Guard wives, whose honorary president is Mrs. John H. Stokes, maintains an information office at the Pentagon. Welcoming calls are made on newly arrived Service wives by neighboring hostesses.

Engineer OWC View Fashions—

The Army and Navy Country Club was the scene of the Engineer Officers' Wives Club luncheon-fashion show 3 March, when one of Washington's leading stores presented a collection especially designed for the Service set.

Mrs. Emerson C. Itschner, club president, welcomed the members and guests, and made a stirring appeal for one hundred per cent cooperation in the current Corps of Engineers' Operation Share. A personal plea has gone to more than 1,200 engineer families in the Washington-Ft.

FT. KNOX, KY.—Mrs. Marvin W. Ludington (left), the new president of the thriving Ft. Knox Thrift Shop, is shown conferring with Mrs. J. R. Degenhardt, who has just relinquished the presidency.

HAMILTON AFB, CALIF.—At a recent meeting presented by the Wives of the Armed Forces, Inc., at Hamilton AFB, Mrs. Henry H. Arnold (right), widow of General "Hap" Arnold, spoke before the 450 wives attending. She is seen here with Mrs. C. D. Vincent, executive vice-president of the organization, and wife of the Vice-Commander of the Western Air Defense Command.

Belvoir area for no-longer-needed clothing, books and household items to supply JANGO's Bargain Shop for May. Net profit from sales will go to local charities, including one especially dear to service people — The Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Airmen's Club.

At the head table with Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, jr., wife of the Army's Chief of Engineers, were Mrs. Charles C. Finucane, wife of the Under Secretary of the Army; the wives of the Assistant Secretaries of the Army, Mesdames George H. Roderick, Hugh M. Milton, and Frank H. Higgins; and Edward A. Bacon, wife of the Deputy to the Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Besides the honor guests, others at the head table included Mesdames Bernard L. Robinson, C. Rodney Smith, William C. Baker, jr., David H. Tulley, Louis J. Rumaggi, Howard Ker, and a new club member, Mrs. Thomas A. Lane, wife of Colonel Lane, Engineer Commissioner for the District of Columbia. Ft. Belvoir was represented by Mrs. Louis W. Prentiss, wife of the Commanding General at The Engineer Center.

Responsible for the decorations were Mesdames Chas. T. Woods, Thomas Dale Willhoit, John Lamond and Arch Hatfield. Arrangements and reservations were smoothly handled by Mesdames Walter P. Leber, Claude C. DeCory, Alfred A. Chabert, Paul D. Troxler, Robert M. Tarbox, Alexander Sutton, James C. Rives and Douglas Fitzgerald. The 100-stress committee was headed by Mrs. J. Arthur Hamilton.

Among those enjoying the town and travel, cocktail and evening modes was Mrs. Robert J. Jackson, recently returned from Thailand. Colonel Jackson is pres-

Psychologist Lists Maturity Factors; Says Service Wives Are Adaptable, Patient

Service wives generally are the world's most traveled, adaptable, optimistic, and patient group one might find.

So were told the members of three Kaiserslautern Women's Club in an address entitled "The Army Wife—A Psychologist's Viewpoint" given recently by Lt. Col. Frederick A. Zehrer, MSC, of the Landstuhl Army Hospital in Germany.

In his talk Colonel Zehrer discussed the factors of maturity and immaturity that might be found among Army wives. He said that the immature are a minority but he felt that a study of the factors involved would help everyone to gauge her own typical adjustment pattern.

Colonel Zehrer pointed out that the criteria of a mature person are the same in civilian and in military life, but do have some special application in the service. The mature Army wife, he said:

- Is able to plan for the future—not to act to satisfy every whim impulsively to keep up with neighbors.
- Accepts and is adaptable to Army and social customs and regulations.
- Possesses a value system which is not primarily materialistic.
- Controls her emotions, has temperance in emotional reactions.
- Acts like a "grown-up"; that is, she accepts the demands of reality and does not resort to petulance to get her own way, nor use her husband's position as a lever.
- She is socially conscious, entering into community activities to the end that the Army community she lives in will be a bit better by the time she leaves for her having been there. Thus, in place of playing bridge and canasta three or four times a week, she spends more of her free time in Parent-Teacher work, teenage groups, Scouts, Gray Ladies, etc.

g. She possesses mature curiosity and interest. For example, while in Germany she will learn the language, study continental customs, history, geography. She will spend a reasonable amount of time out of the "little U.S.A. Islands" (clusters of Government quarters) bounded by PX, Commissary, beauty parlor, gas station, and Officers Club.

h. She is optimistic in her general attitude and feelings; she seeks positive and good rather than negative and bad.

i. She is considerate of others at all times.

j. She develops new friends on a sincere, personal basis.

k. She practices moderation in all things, eating, sleeping, drinking, working, playing, etc.

Traits opposite to these, Colonel Zehrer said, are signs of immaturity. Everyone, he said, is not mature in all respects, so that it is helpful to review these factors in studying personal traits.

He suggested that in Germany the wives see as much as possible of Europe and that they spend as much time as they can afford away from the Army communities.

Army wives, he declared, should run their own homes, not turn them over completely to their maids. He strongly suggested that while maids are fine, they should be used for chores and under supervision.

WRIGHT PATTERSON AFB, OHIO. At the February luncheon of the Woman's Club, approximately 600 members enjoyed a show of spring fashions entitled "An Appointment For Living." Creations suitable for all Club Calendar activities were modeled by Woman's Club members representing Air Force, Army, Navy and Royal Air Force. Models from left to right standing: Mrs. H. B. Morrison, jr., Mrs. L. A. Weissinger, Mrs. R. J. Burton, and Mrs. C. W. Hurd. Seated are: Mrs. J. E. Miller, Mrs. H. G. Beck and Mrs. V. L. Anderson. Other service wives who modeled in the show were: Mrs. H. B. Richardson, Mrs. H. B. Morrison, jr., Mrs. D. H. Yelding, Mrs. J. A. Summer, Mrs. H. S. Jones, Mrs. E. D. Smith, Mrs. C. S. Seamans, III, Mrs. R. J. Burton, and Mrs. R. W. McKee.

ently assigned as Post Engineer at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Mrs. A. F. Hansen won the door prize—a straw purse. Mrs. Ralph C. Brown, Club officer, had as her guest, Frau Hans Ette, wife of a member of the German Mission, and Mrs. Michael G. L. Joy from England. Mrs. Charles M. Messall was present for her farewell attendance, since she and Major Messall leave shortly for duty in Izmir, Turkey. Mrs. Eugene Caffey, wife of the Army's Judge Advocate General, was also present, and Mrs. Itschner's mother, Mrs. Clarence Corey.

Bureau Of Ships & Engineering Duty Officers' Wives—

The Bureau of Ships and Engineering Duty Officers' Wives will hold their Spring luncheon, on Wednesday, 23

March, at the Army-Navy Country Club, when Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will be the guest of honor. Mrs. Wilson D. Leggett, wife of the Chief of the Bureau of Ships, will also be present.

Co-chairmen for the occasion are Mrs. William H. Leahy and Mrs. Armand M. Morgan, with Mrs. Ralph K. James of 2629 S. Hayes St., Arlington, Va., in charge of reservations.

One of Washington's stores will present an accessory show.

Air Force Wives Welcome Newcomers—

The hospitality committee of the Air Force Officers' Wives Club of Washington, D. C., under the chairmanship of Mrs. Jack C. McClure, jr., held a number

700 FAMILIES MAY GET REFUND

The House Armed Services Committee voted approval this week of a bill which authorizes refunds to approximately 700 Service families who were required to pay part of the shipping costs to return their household goods to the U. S. from overseas stations.

The measure (HR 2121) covers personnel in the grades of major (lieutenant commander) and above who went to overseas assignments prior to 10 July 1952 and who returned to the U. S. prior to 1 July 1953, bringing with them more than 9,000 pounds of household goods. As a result of changes in weight limitations for household shipments—which went into effect while personnel were overseas—approximately 700 Service families were required to pay partial costs for return shipment of their household effects in excess of 9,000 pounds.

The group affected by the measure includes about 500 Army, 50 Air Force, 130 Navy and five Marine Corps officers.

of coffees recently, welcoming new Air Force wives to the Washington area.

Mrs. Robert L. Kirby of the Springfield area in Virginia was hostess to her group on 25 Feb. Mrs. R. D. Swett of Alexandria, Va., welcomed the Beverly Hills newcomers, at her home, when Mrs. Thomas B. McDonald, 1st vice-president of the Club, addressed the group. And, on 3 March, Mrs. Joe W. Kelly, also of Alexandria, was hostess to the new arrivals in the Belle Haven vicinity, having Mrs. McClure as speaker. Present, also, at the latter gathering, was Mrs. Nathan H. Ranck, who is chairman of the Alexandria area hospitality committee.

Mrs. Nixon To Be Jango Honor Guest—

Reservations for the Jango luncheon at the Army-Navy Country Club, on Tuesday, 15 March, which will honor Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, wife of the Vice President of the United States, are now being made at the Jango office, NA 8-5809, until Monday, 14 March. An urgent plea has been issued that all Jangos and their guests make an extra effort to arrive between noon and 12:30 P.M.

Added attractions will be a fashion show staged by one of Washington's leading stores, and gay background music provided by a string group of the U. S. Navy Band.

Ordnance Ladies Lunch—

A hobby hat fashion show was a hilarious feature of the March luncheon for the Ordnance Ladies' Association. The affair, held at the Ft. McNair Officers' Club, 10 March, was sponsored by the wives of officers of the Industrial Division, under the chairmanship of Mrs. John B. Medaris, wife of the Chief of the Division. Clever invitations in verse invited each member to make and wear a hat depicting her particular hobby and prizes for the most original, prettiest, and funniest were given. Mrs. Emerson L. Cummings, wife of the Chief of Ordnance, Mrs. Earl Gruver and Mrs. John H. Hinrichs were judges.

Members of the Association were disappointed that unforeseen circumstances prevented the honor guest, Mrs. Arthur W. Radford, wife of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, from attending.

Among those assisting Mrs. Medaris were: Mesdames Russell Klanderman, Benjamin Whitehouse, John G. Zierdt, Daniel F. Shepherd, Charles L. Ogden, Allen P. Blade, and Frank A. Bogart.

JAGC Ladies To Celebrate St. Patrick's Day—

The Ladies of the Judge Advocate General's Corps will meet on Thursday, 17 March, at the Army-Navy Country Club for a St. Patrick's Day luncheon.

Among the guests of honor will be Mrs. Wesley McL. Hague, wife of the Commandant of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Mrs. Howard L. Craig, whose husband is Commandant of the National War College, and, from the Irish Embassy, Mrs. Francis A. Coffey, wife of the Second Secretary.

Mrs. Albert Barkin, chairman of the luncheon committee, will have assisting her, Mrs. Donald T. Ruby and Mrs. Stewart H. Legendre for the program. Mrs. John W. Gorn is responsible for the arrangements. Mrs. Alfred Jaynes and Mrs. Jesse C. Davis are in charge of hospitality. For transportation, members may call Mrs. Willie H. H. Jones or Mrs. Charles E. Royer. Invitations, Mrs. James

MRS. JOSEPH L. SHARICK, bride of Lieutenant Sharick of Ft. Jackson, S. C., and daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Clarence N. Keen of Decatur, Ga., was 2d Lt. Barbara Keen, ANC, of Brooke Army Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.

MRS. NAT EARL GOODWIN, 2d, daughter of Mrs. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., and the late General Buckner, who became the bride of Mr. Goodwin, on 27 Feb., at the Presidio of San Francisco.

MISS JANE ASHWORTH, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Edward T. Ashworth of Colorado Springs, Colo., who will become the bride of Capt. Edwin W. Robertson, 2d, in June.

MRS. MICHAEL CHARLES PEARSON, daughter of Col. (USA) and Mrs. George Leslie Caldwell, was Miss Betty Jean Caldwell, before her marriage, on 5 March, to Mr. Pearson.

MISS ROMAINE MIRIAM SIMENSON, daughter of Col. and Mrs. E. G. Simenson of Travis AFB, Calif., whose engagement to Mr. Philip James Moloney was announced recently by her parents.

F. Hanley; and decorations, Mrs. Gerald A. Sams and Mrs. John J. Hynes. Mrs. Vernon C. Rawles is arranging publicity.

Air Force Dental Officers' Wives—

The Air Force Dental Officers' Wives Club of Washington, D. C. will sponsor a Spring Charity Party, Friday, 11 March, when Brig. Gen. Marvin E. Kennebeck, Assistant for Dental Services, O.S.G., and Mrs. Kennebeck will open their home for the occasion. With their husbands as guests, the group will combine a social get-together with a pantry shelf sale and other fund raising projects. Proceeds from the evening's activities, which will be under the chairmanship of Col. and Mrs. Nilton E. Fowler and Major and Mrs. Henry I. Copeland, Jr., will go to the Club's locally adopted charity, the Children's Hospital Dental Clinic.

SGO Women's Club Honors Mrs. Stevens—

Mrs. Robert T. Stevens, wife of the Secretary of the Army, will be the guest of honor at the Women's Club of the Army Surgeon General's Office, on Tuesday, 15 March, at the Army Medical Center Officers' Club.

Mrs. Walter A. Butkus, with her Silver Spring group, has arranged a musical program, to be presented by Sergeant Lindroth, harpist with the Army Band.

SAC Bases Cited

Three Strategic Air Command bases were singled out for top scores in the command's Air Base Group rating system for the month of January. According to SAC's Management Control System, Castle AFB, Calif., Ramey AFB, P. R., and Offutt AFB, Nebr., were rated highest in that order.

When they return from their wedding trip, Lieutenant and Mrs. de Sibour will live in Panama Canal Zone where Lieutenant de Sibour is to be stationed.

Asks Cigarette Tax Boost

All military personnel in Texas will have to pay five cents more for a pack of cigarettes if a bill introduced in the Texas Legislature is approved.

The proposed measure would end the state tax exemption on cigarettes sold to military personnel through the Base Exchanges. The exemption has been in effect since 1943.

Cited For Safety Program

Capt. Alfred G. Richason, 4th Strategic Reconnaissance Squadron, Lockbourne, AFB, O., has been chosen SAC's first flying safety-officer for the month of January.

Captain Richason was cited for his efforts in organizing an effective flying safety program which stressed the immediate reporting of any accident or incident to facilitate prompt investigation and corrective action.

Mrs. Victor Diediker, coordinator of the conference, said the women discussed problems peculiar to women's groups in France, including club organizations, relations with the French people and groups, and Franco-American youth activities.

Approximately 100 women representing Service wives' organizations in France attended.

Members of the conference committee aiding Mrs. Diediker were Mrs. Robert F. Curran, program and discussion chairman and Mrs. John Embry, treasurer, both of the Orleans Officers' Wives Club; Mrs. J. W. Chapman and Mrs. E. H. La Flamme, EUCOM; Mrs. R. S. Camera, Navy Wives Club, Paris; Mrs. John S. White, USAF Wives and Mrs. A. M. Saunders, Seine Area Command Officers' Wives Club.

"Sweethearts of the Classics"

FT. EUSTIS, VA. A humorous skit was presented at the monthly coffee of the Eustis Officers' Wives Club, carrying out the theme "Sweethearts of the Classics," with members creating their own costumes. Juliet was played by Mrs. W. Bunker; Poppea, by Mrs. P. Dolan; Cleopatra, by Mrs. J. Erskine; Madame Butterfly, by Mrs. W. Grace; Josephine, by Mrs. C. Terry; and Mona Lisa, by Mrs. D. Vaught.

"Beaux Night" at Bragg

FT. BRAGG, N. C. The second annual "Beaux Night" fashion show was presented by the Ft. Bragg Officers' Wives Club, on 11 Feb., at the Main Post Officers' Club annex.

Sponsored by the ladies of the 82d Airborne Division, the show featured the latest fashions in women's spring and summer suits, dresses, shorts and bathing suits.

About 500 gathered to view the various attires, modeled by 12 of the Post officers' wives, and to take part in the dance which followed the style show.

A door prize, drawn by Maj. Gen. Joseph P. Cleland, Commanding General of Ft. Bragg and the XVIII Airborne Corps, was won by Mrs. B. M. Austin.

The models were: Mesdames L. S. Lode-wick, C. B. DeGavre, A. J. Lepping, M. C. Chester, R. B. Spilman, J. W. Cannan, T. W. Sharkey, R. D. Bentley, C. G. Cassel, E. A. Partain, D. H. Ross and Miss Marian Lepping.

Bachelor Officers Will Be Models

FT. McPHERSON, GA. A fashion show designed to attract officers as well as their wives were presented 11 March on "Men's Night at the Woman's Club."

Among bachelor officers who modeled civilian clothing from an Atlanta Men's Store were Capt. John C. Francis, 1st Lt. Charles N. Dean, 2d Lt. James H. Strahle and 2d Lt. J. E. Mattson.

The program was coordinated by Mrs. W. H. McNaul, Post Woman's Club president; Mrs. A. R. Bolling, honorary president and Mrs. J. A. Hall, program chairman.

NCO Wives See Fashion Show

CARLISLE BARRACKS, PA. A Fashion Show featuring "Fashions in the Modern Mode—From Morning 'Til Night" was a highlight of the regular monthly meeting of the Non-Commissioned Officers' Wives Club at Carlisle Barracks, 1 March.

The latest fashions for teen-age girls were modeled by Misses Joy Davidson, Nancy Wehry, Diane Rineard, Kitty Lou Curran, Donna Miller and Lois Dickson.

Mrs. Cletus G. Curran described the costumes. Hostesses were Mrs. Michael Cadena and Mrs. Curran.

Mrs. Mosgrove Elected

FT. LEWIS, WASH. Mrs. Richard Mosgrove has been elected president of the newly organized Women's Golf Association.

Other officers are Mesdames Charles B. Whittle, vice president; James E. O'Brien, secretary; Charles Norris, treasurer.

Trustees are Mesdames A. G. Hagen, Charles Lucas and Alfred Grebe, with Mrs. J. T. Evans and Mrs. W. R. Cohen as alternates.

Mrs. Grebe is tournament chairman, Mrs. John H. Harrison is handicap and ringer chairman, Mrs. Hagen is rules chairman and Mrs. Evans is publicity chairman.

SERVICE FOLK

MRS. HOYT S. VANDENBERG, widow of General Vandenberg, the late Air Force Chief of Staff, will be returning to Washington, D. C., in April, where she will make her permanent residence at The Westchester, in an apartment she has recently purchased. Until now, Mrs. Vandenberg has divided her time between her family at Staatsburg, N. Y., visiting her son, now stationed in Germany, and her daughter in Colorado Springs. . . MRS. L. SHERWOOD SABIN, wife of REAR ADMIRAL SABIN, commanding Amphibious Group 1, which recently evacuated the Tachen Islands, is at Ft. Bragg, N. C., visiting her son-in-law and daughter, CAPT. and MRS. DAVID M. PETERS, and the newest addition to the family, small LAUREN PETERS, her granddaughter, born on 24 Feb. Captain Peters is aide-de-camp to Maj. Gen. Joseph P. Cleland. . .

RETIRED SERVICE NOTES

VAdm. J. B. Moss, USN-Ret. Elected Lab President

President H. Leslie Hoffman, of Hoffman Electronics Corporation, has announced election of VAdm. John B. Moss, USN-Ret., as president of Hoffman Laboratories, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary.

Mr. Hoffman will retain his same active part in Hoffman Laboratories as chairman of the board, in addition to serving as president and chairman of Hoffman Electronics.

"Admiral Moss' appointment is a significant forward step in our program to widen our base of top-level executive management to direct the general expansion in all operations of the company," Mr. Hoffman said. "We are particularly fortunate to have Admiral Moss heading Hoffman Laboratories because of his demonstrated administrative ability and intimate knowledge of all phases of aviation and the usage of electronics."

Mr. Hoffman said the stature and experience that Admiral Moss has gained both in industry and in military service will be a major factor in Hoffman Laboratories' further expansion into electronics-systems production for aircraft, helicopters and guided missiles.

Admiral Moss, 54, has been corporate-wide consultant for Bell Aircraft Corporation since retirement from the Navy in 1953. He operated between Bell's Niagara frontier division in Buffalo, the Texas Helicopter division in Ft. Worth and Bell's Washington office covering the company's activities in the guided missile, electronic, helicopter and convertiplane fields.

Admiral Moss' most recent military assignment was assistant chief of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics, a position he held from March 1951 until his retirement 31 Aug. 1953.

The admiral, who has logged more than 6500 hours in almost every type of Navy aircraft in operational use, will make his headquarters in Los Angeles.

AMS Chief Will Retire; To Head UMW Hospital

Col. Robert Lee Black, chief of the Army Medical Service Corps, will head the United Mine Workers of America's memorial medical center now under construction at Williamson, W. Va.

Colonel Black will accept the new post after his retirement this Spring. The hospital is one of 10 being built by UMW's Memorial Hospital Association for miners and their families who are beneficiaries of the UMW welfare and retirement fund.

Colonel Black also will have responsibility for three smaller UMW hospital projects at McDowell and Pikesville, Ky., and Man W. Va. The four hospitals combined will have a total bed capacity of 330 with expansion to twice that size if necessary.

Lt. Col. Toelken Retires

■ CAMP GORDON, GA. Lt. Col. Julius W. Toelken, USA, former Chief of the Criminal Investigation Laboratory of the Provost Marshal General Center, was honored recently in a colorful retreat ceremony when Maj. Gen. William H. Maglin, USA, Provost Marshal, cited him for his work in the Military Police Corps.

The ceremony marked Colonel Toelken's retirement from active military service after 38 years of Reserve active and inactive duty with the Army. He has been with the Center in command of the Criminal Investigation Laboratory at Camp Gordon since May 1953.

Gen. Bradley Will Head Vet Pensions' Study

General of the Army Omar N. Bradley was named last week head of a commission charged with recommending means of streamlining the veterans pension program.

President Eisenhower, in announcing the membership of the commission, implied he thought veterans pensions might well be reduced.

In a letter to General Bradley, the President cited the higher pay of servicemen today, along with other benefits received by armed forces personnel. He pointed out that there are 21 million veterans today as compared with only four million in 1940.

General Bradley was instructed to head a group of seven men to make a complete survey of the veterans pension field while keeping in mind the benefits which are provided citizens who are non-veterans.

President Eisenhower said the object of the survey should be to assure that veterans and their survivors "will receive equitable treatment consistent with the orderly development of public policy, in this important area."

Noting that pension payments are likely to double within the next several decades, the President noted that expenditures for pension and compensation benefits to veterans are almost as large today as all benefit payments under the Old Age and Survivors insurance system.

Lt. Col. Birney, Ret., Is ROA Chapter Chief

Lt. Col. David T. Birney (Ret.) will be installed as president, and Maj. Patrick L. Klein as vice president of the El Paso, Tex., Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association 19 March.

A committee composed of Maj. Frances C. Brand and Capt. Dorothy M. Hunter will make recommendations for the post of secretary and treasurer at that time.

Major Klein is Assistant Public Information Officer at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

Col. Hans Herwig, Ret., Will Attend Tokyo Reunion

■ TOKYO, JAPAN. West Point graduates and former students of the Academy will celebrate the 153d anniversary of the founding of the USMA with a dinner on 15 March.

Distinguished military guests scheduled to be present include General J. E. Hull, Commander in Chief of the Far East and United Nations Commands; General Maxwell D. Taylor, Commanding General of United States Army Forces Far East/Eighth U. S. Army; General Earle E. Partridge, Commander of Far East Air Forces; and Vice Adm. W. M. Callaghan, Commander Naval Forces, Far East.

Col. Hans R. W. Herwig, USA-Ret., USMA '13, the oldest West Point graduate residing in Japan, also will attend. Colonel Herwig served as Air Quartermaster during World War II. At the time of his retirement in Japan in 1949, he was Deputy Quartermaster for the Far East.

Brig. Gen. John W. Bowen, Deputy J-3 (Operations), Headquarters, Far East Command, chairman of the dinner committee, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Col. Crawford Becomes Goodfellow Commander

Col. R. C. Crawford, a former ATC staff member, has succeeded Col. Beverly E. Carmack as base commander at Goodfellow AFB, Tex. Colonel Carmack had been acting base commander since the departure of Col. Robert B. Davenport for an assignment in Thailand.

Colonel Crawford's arrival almost coincided with the last training flight conducted at Goodfellow with a single-engine T-28 trainer. In the future, basic multi-engine training at Goodfellow will be done with B-25's.

The T-28 trainers had been used at Goodfellow since 1953 when they replaced the T-6's. The T-28 trainers were ferried to Moore Field, Tex., where they will be put to other use.

Retired Officers Urge "Speedy Approval" Of Pay Raise; Approve Committee Action

The Retired Officers' Association urged "speedy approval" of the new military pay raise bill during final hearings before the Kilday House Armed Services Subcommittee.

Capt. Franz O. Willenbacher, USN-Ret., Executive Vice President and Legal Counsel of the ROA, told the group that "All retired personnel, regardless of the time of their retirement or the laws under which they draw their retired pay, have the right to expect, and do expect, that they will be included in any pay increases which may be enacted at this time."

As approved by the full House Committee, the final version of the House pay bill provides that all retired personnel receiving pay under laws in effect prior to 1 Oct. 1949 shall receive a flat six per cent increase. Those retired under the Career Compensation Act will receive the same percentage increase as active duty personnel. Retired officers with less than three years of service for pay purposes and WOs and EM with less than two years of service for pay purposes, who were retired for physical disability or placed on the temporary disability retirement list, will also receive a straight six per cent increase.

Captain Willenbacher had recommended that the section of the bill which affects retired personnel should be rewritten to provide that any person entitled to receive retired pay, retirement pay, retainer pay, or equivalent pay under laws in effect prior to 1 Oct. 1949, shall be entitled to an increase on the basis of the same percentage increase under such laws, to which members and former members of the uniformed services in similar status as to rank or rating and length of service, covered by section five of the new act, will be entitled to receive.

The ROA spokesman said he approved the Subcommittee's final action with regard to retired officers "as far as it goes."

Debate on the pay bill was set to open on the House floor as THE JOURNAL went to press, and the Senate Armed Services Committee tentatively had set 17 Mar. as the opening date for hearings on that side of the Capitol.

Captain Willenbacher also addressed the committee on behalf of the Association of Commissioned Officers of the U. S. Public Health Service, of which he is counsel.

ASK TAX EQUITY

The Defense Department has asked Congress to make retired military personnel under 65 eligible for income tax benefits available to all others on Federal retired lists.

These benefits can be worth as much as $240 per year.

A number of Congressmen had introduced legislation to rescind the discriminatory action.

Now the Defense Department has made an official statement on the matter. The Pentagon pointed out that average retired pay is about $2,000 per year.

The Department contended that the discrimination against retired servicemen is a blow to the campaign to raise the attractiveness of military service.

The matter is pending in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Gen. Sherrill USA-Ret. Elected Bank V. P.

The Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Arlington, Va., has elected Brig. Gen. Stephen H. Sherrill, USA-Ret., Vice-President in charge of Armed Services activities.

General Sherrill is one of a group of retired Army, Navy, and Air Force officers who helped to organize the bank in 1951.

Starting with an initial capital stock of $300,000, the bank now reports assets amounting to more than $7,000,000.

One of the principal objectives of the bank is to offer banking services to career military personnel and their families, not only in the Washington area, but anywhere in the world where they are stationed. The bank plans to open branch offices convenient to military stations and activities in the Arlington area.

Robins Program Keeps Retired Informed

■ ROBINS AFB, GA. Two retired Air Force officers living in the vicinity were guests of the Base Commander last week as part of a program designed to acquaint retired officers with current Air Force procedures.

Col. Usher T. Winslett of Macon, and Col. Samuel E. Lunday of Perry, lunched with Maj. Gen. K. E. Tibbets, USAF, Warner Robins Air Materiel Area Commander and members of his staff. At the luncheon a brief discussion was held of the organization of the Air Force in general and of Robins AFB in particular.

They were then taken on a tour of the Flight Line where they saw the latest in aircraft, with a cockpit inspection of a C-124. Following the tour, qualified base personnel discussed with the retired officers individually the latest information on benefits and privileges of retired officers and their dependents.

The visit to Robins AFB of the retired officers was in accord with recent Air Force policy to provide retired personnel with assistance and information on all matters pertaining to their rights, privileges and benefits and to give them greater access to current information concerning major changes in Air Force techniques and developments.

Ten Retire At Kilmer

■ CAMP KILMER, N. J. Ten Army enlisted men have retired here after serving a combined total of over 224 years. Lt. Col. Ewald E. Mietzel, Commanding Officer, Kilmer Transfer Station, briefly addressed the men during a retirement ceremony. Those retiring were: M/Sgt. Paul H. Bourgeois, Joe C. Campbell, Willie B. Purvis, and Winston A. Royal, and Sfc. George R. Pavelich, Sgt. William W. Avery, Sgt. Joseph F. Hayden, Sgt. Guy S. Shaw, Sgt. George Spahn, and Pvt. George Hardoby.

■ FT. JACKSON, S. C. More than 100 officers and their ladies attended a reception here recently in honor of the retirement of Col. Harry E. Rucker, USA, and Lt. Col. Recy L. Rickson, USA, Comptroller and Post Signal Officer, respectively.

Colonel Rucker, retired after more than 30 years service; Colonel Rickson, after more than 28 years.

Colonel and Mrs. Rucker plan to continue their residence at 4602 Sandy Ridge Road, Columbia, S. C., for the time being.

LONG-TIME FITZSIMONS SECY. RETIRES

Mrs. Florence M. Fisher, secretary and administrative assistant to commanding officers at Fitzsimons Army Hospital for the past 36 years, retired from government service on 28 Feb. She will continue to make her home in Denver.

Mrs. Fisher served in her secretarial capacity since arrival at Fitzsimons in 1919, and has seen the institution grow from a group of temporary World War I structures to the Army's largest hospital.

She has served under all 15 of Fitzsimons' commanders, and has known personally every Surgeon General since 1918. She has also become acquainted with such visiting dignitaries as Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower.

Besides the present hospital commander, Maj. Gen. M. E. Griffin, she has also been secretary and administrative assistant to Lt. Col. William P. Harlow, Col. Howard H. Johnson, Lt. Col. Calvin D. Cowles, Col. Henry Page, Lt. Col. William H. Moncrief, Col. Paul C. Hutton, Col. Paul S. Halloran, Col. Earl H. Bruns, Col. Carroll D. Buck, Col. Frederick Starr Wright, Brig. Gen. Omar H. Quade, Brig. Gen. Edwin H. Roberts, Brig. Gen. Harry D. Offutt and Brig. Gen. Paul I. Robinson.

Obituaries

Mrs. Paulette P. Lawrence

Funeral services for Mrs. Paulette P. Lawrence, wife of Col. Leslie F. Lawrence, USA-Ret., of 235 So. Brooksville Rd., Cheshire, Conn., were held at the Methodist Church, with burial at West Cemetery, Plainville, Conn., on 18 Feb. Mrs. Lawrence died at the Waterbury, Conn. Hospital, on 15 Feb. She was 61 years old. Colonel and Mrs. Lawrence, who had celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary on 13 Feb., met during WWI, when Colonel Lawrence was serving in France. Mrs. Lawrence came to the United States to be married in Brooklyn, N. Y., and her first Army post was Ft. Riley, Kans., where her husband was then stationed. Since Colonel Lawrence's retirement in 1962, they had made their home at Cheshire.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by her father and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Lawrence of Ansonia, Conn.; two brothers, Mr. Christian G. Pirouelle of Burke, Va., and Mr. Gustave C. Pirouelle of Billancourt, France; and one sister, Mrs. Angele E. Lagane of St. Maurice, France.

Maj. Allen Parker Cowgill, USA-Ret.

Services at the Old Cadet Chapel of the U. S. Military Academy, for Maj. Allen Parker Cowgill, USA-Ret., with burial at the Post Cemetery, West Point, took place on 1 March. He died at his home at Syracuse, N. Y., on 27 Feb., of a cerebral hemorrhage, at the age of 64.

Major Cowgill was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy, with a standing of 11th in the class of 1914. His service included Mexican Border duty; instruction at the Military Academy in the Department of Mathematics; Philippine duty, in charge of the Department's Engineer Office; and graduation from the Engineer School. Major Cowgill, who was retired for disability in line of duty, following retirement, obtained his M.A. degree in Mathematics and Astronomy at the University of Nebraska in 1930, and in 1935, his Ph.D. degree in Mathematics and Civil Engineering. From 1935 to 1938, he headed the Department of Mathematics at Indiana Technical College, Ft. Wayne, and from 1938 to 1947, taught Engineering Mathematics at the College of Applied Science of Syracuse University.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen M. Cowgill of 519 Allen St., Syracuse; two daughters, the Misses Mary A. Cowgill and Louise Cowgill; one son, Mr. William P. Cowgill; one brother, Mr. William W. Cowgill of Washington, D. C.; and four grandchildren.

Argonaut Division Names

Two To Key Spots

Two transfers in Northern California's 49th Infantry (Argonaut) Division are announced by Maj. Gen. Roy A. Green, Commander.

New assistant Division commander is Col. Leonard N. Dunkel, WWI corporal with the 2d Division who began his National Guard service in 1921 as a private with A Company, 159th Infantry.

Colonel Dunkel served as first sergeant of A Company at the same time Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, USA, Deputy Sixth Army Commander, served as first sergeant of D Company.

The second transfer is that of Lt. Col. Paul R. Teilh to command the 159th Infantry, a unit in which he, too, started as a private. Although only 38, Colonel Teilh is a 20-year Guard veteran, having enlisted with L Company while an undergraduate at the University of California, from which he was graduated in 1937.

Win RA Appointments

Fourteen student officers at the Medical Field Service School were converted recently from Reserve to Regular Army status in a ceremony at Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., in the office of Brig. Gen. James P. Cooney, MC, USA, school commandant.

Twelve Medical Corps officers, an Army Nurse and a Medical Service Corps Officer received the Regular Army commissions. Upon completion of training they will receive their first assignments as members of the Regular Army.

The group includes: Captains James Earl McCarty, Basil L. Truscott, and August A. Howard.

First Lieutenants Waine C. Johnson, Don Woodward Longfellow, Marcel E. Conrad, jr., Howard Irving Kortis, Alfred Henry Kent, Charles E. Patch, jr., MSC, David T. Whitcomb, Mary C. Quinn, ANC, Hugh H. Cook, Archibald Weems McFadden, and James L. Hedlund.

More Officers Okayed

For Army Finance Corps

The Army Finance Corps has been authorized a small increase in officer personnel to meet requirements of the integrated installation accounting program within the technical and administrative services.

Active duty warrant officers and enlisted men with reserve commissions as captains and first lieutenants in the Finance Corps are eligible to go on active duty as officers if they have not previously been relieved from active duty as officers through an involuntary release program. Finance Corps captains and first lieutenants in the Reserve Components currently on active duty also are eligible.

Applications should be sent to Second Army headquarters by 25 March. Those selected will be called by 15 June and sent to Finance School, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., for a three-week course.

Firms Await New USAF

Rules on Depreciation

Aviation and electronic firms are annoyed by the Air Force delay in accepting the principles of the new tax law for normal depreciation allowances. This attitude does not affect the status of allowances for true depreciation.

The "declining balance" principle of the new tax law has been written in the last draft of the new proposed cost allowance principles (Part 2, Section XV, ASPR) although rumors are current that modifications are still being considered.

Air Force officials state they are operating under an order from their auditor general to continue the old method until there is a definite policy adopted by the Defense Department. A proposed directive and news release has been submitted to the three Services for approval. No agreement has yet been reached.

$15 Million Contracts

For Lear Instruments

New production contracts totaling over $15 million have been awarded the Grand Rapids Division of Lear, Inc., for instrument products during the first two months of 1955. The new contracts include: $5,080,604 for VGI aircraft attitude indicating systems with spare components; $1,856,000 for a new Lear product, the type MA-1 high latitude aircraft compass system; and $6,662,700 for MB-2 autopilot announced earlier this month.

The MB-2 automatic flight system, which is slated for installation on all F-84F and RF-84F jets, was developed by Lear to meet mission requirements of the Strategic Air Command of the Air Force.

The VGI attitude indicating systems called for by the contracts will meet requirements of the Air Force for new installations on high-performance jet aircraft. The contract for MA-1 compass systems marks the first entry of Lear into the military aircraft gyro compass field. The MA-1 is scheduled for installation on the Navy's new supersonic fighter, the F9F-9 Tiger, and other high-performance Navy aircraft.

RCA Official Elected

NSIA Committee V.P.

John H. Pfeiffer, Manager, Facilities Accounting, RCA Corporate Staff, Camden, N. J., has been elected Vice-Chairman of the Facilities Task Committee of the National Security Industrial Association. Mr. Pfeiffer has served as an RCA representative at the NSIA since 1951.

The NSIA, an independent organization of manufacturers engaged in production for national defense, provides advisory assistance to military agencies in the interest of more efficient government-industry business relations.

The Facilities Task Committee, a function of the NSIA Procurement Advisory Committee, concentrates on the development and interpretation of military procurement regulations governing the responsibilities of contractors in acquiring and using government-owned industrial facilities and special tooling.

AF Gets DOD Task

For Tech. Assistance

A directive #5160.4 signed by Secretary Charles E. Wilson has delegated to the Air Force the responsibility of providing scientific and technical information and related services to all Defense agencies and contractors.

The purpose was for "the efficient interchange" of such data and "to promote progress and economy in research and development and to prevent duplication of such services."

Secretary Harold E. Talbott of the Air Force has assigned the task to the Air Research and Development Command, which is expected to centralize all cataloging and distribution in Washington, D. C.

Jupiter Gas Turbine

Takes To The Air

Solar Aircraft Company of San Diego, Calif., has received an Air Force contract for development of a gas turbine compressor to be used in starting powerful new jet engines going into service.

The company expects the new ground power unit will solve a major current aviation problem: finding a portable power source that can supply enough compressed air under all operating conditions for starting such large jet engines as the Allison J71 and the Pratt & Whitney J57.

Under an Air Force contract, Solar has modified one of its 500-horsepower "Jupiter" gas turbine engines so that it will furnish most of its output in the form of compressed air, bled from the gas turbine's compressor. The resulting engine has been built into a mobile, portable ground power unit for starting jet planes.

The new ground power unit was designed and built at Solar's San Diego plant. Known as Model T-300J, it has been successfully used at Douglas Aircraft Company's Long Beach Division to start the RB-66 reconnaissance bomber. Starts on the Douglas plane's two J71 engines are quite rapid using the T-300J, and even more important, engine starting temperatures are substantially lower, thereby giving longer life.

Solar originally developed the Jupiter gas turbine under a Navy contract as a prime mover for electric generators and high speed boats.

Hercules Arrives

Ahead Of Schedule

First production version of a new-type Air Force combat transport, the Lockheed-designed C-130A Hercules turboprop, rolled out of Government Aircraft Plant No. 6 at Marietta, Ga., ahead of schedule, the Air Force and Lockheed Aircraft Corporation's Georgia Division announced on 10 March.

The big transport was towed along a taxi strip for the mile-long journey to the Lockheed pre-flight service area, adjacent to Dobbins AFB, Ga. Here it is to be subjected to a rigorous ground testing program prior to flight in the near future.

The Hercules sits only 41 inches off the ground, on four low-pressure tandem tires of huge size. Its landing gear is a somewhat modified tricycle arrangement with dual nose-wheels for guidance. The low-slung fuselage makes for easy loading and unloading.

It has a wingspread of 132 ft., a 95-ft. fuselage, and height is 38 ft.

Classed by the Air Force as a "medium combat transport," the C-130A has a clear cargo compartment longer and wider than a standard railroad freight car. The big aerial van is designed to fly the world's skyways on combat and logistics support missions, for air evacuation, troop carrier, paratrooper and air-dropping assignments, as well as a variety of other military missions.

First C-130As are scheduled to go to the Tactical Air Command Troop Carrier Wings.

Moving Submarine

Refuels Navy Seaplane

In a recent exercise in the Caribbean, the Navy tested an important new element of its mobile striking power—refueling a seaplane in the open sea from a moving submarine.

The two-week operation conducted by Commander Submarine Force Atlantic Fleet involved a twin-engine P5M Martin Marlin patrol seaplane from a Navy squadron based at Norfolk, Va., and the submarine-oiler USS Guavina.

Submarine-seaplane refueling is an element which top Navy officials are mentioning with increasing frequency in their plans to implement the Navy's new concept of "mobile sea bases."

Carrier Air-Resupply

By C-123's Offered Navy

Fairchild Aircraft has presented to the Navy a proposal for a carrier air-resupply version of the basic C-123B Assault Transport airplane now being produced in quantity for the Air Force.

This new application of the Fairchild aircraft is called the "Flying Lighter," a "lighter" being a surface supply ship.

Fairchild stated that this airplane, operating on and off a carrier, would significantly augment the vital air-resupply of critical priority cargo and personnel now being accomplished in part by squadrons of the Naval Fleet Logistic Air Wings, with their present fleet of cargo-personnel aircraft.

It was suggested that Fleet Logistic aircraft, having landed at a foreign airfield, could immediately off-load their priority cargo directly onto "Flying Lighters" at this same airfield and, in a matter of hours rather than days or weeks, have this cargo safely stowed aboard the carrier.

J-47 Engine On B-47

Hits 1,000-Hour Mark

A General Electric J47 jet engine installed on a B-47 Stratojet stationed at McConnell AFB, Kans., has become the first such engine to attain 1,000 hours' utilization without a major overhaul.

The J47 engines, which power all of the Air Force's Stratojets, originally were intended to receive major overhauls at the 600-hour mark, but as they gradually began to exceed normal expectations the time was raised to 1,000 hours.

2-Year Extension Asked

For Renegotiation Act

In a brief message to Congress on 4 March 1955, President Eisenhower asked for a two year extension of the Renegotiation Act of 1951. Stating that because "of the complex nature of modern military equipment" it is impossible for the government to determine fair prices or for the supplier to forecast accurately his costs. Also the government is often "unable to obtain the price benefits that accrue from normal competition."

Another reason given was "because the United States has no direct contractual relations with the subcontractors, the only protection against unreasonable prices is through the process of renegotiation."

These factors become important as "the next two calendar years will include paying the bills for the completion of the expansion of the Air Force to 137 wings. The next 2 years also will see an introduction into the Air Force program of the latest type of supersonic aircraft."

Representative Dan Reed, of New York, has introduced H.R. 4694 to carry out the President's wishes. It has been referred to the House Ways and Means Committee. Several Senators have already announced their intention of introducing renegotiation bills and one has already been attached to the new tax bill being considered.

Previous extensions of the Renegotiation Act of 1951 have been for one year and last session it was announced no further extensions would be requested. Industry observers believe the stock market investigation may cause speedy adoption of the President's request.

seph Gnas and Ralph D. Fisher were retired after 20 years of service, 10 of which were in commissioned grade.

Service Wives Give House Committee Expert Testimony On Pay Measure

bill will pay you that amount extra each time you are forced to move on a permanent change of station?

A—Yes, I believe so.

A Good Provision

Q—You think that is a good provision, in other words to help you take care of some of the expenses incident to moving?

A—I do, sir, I think it is a good provision.

Q—Do you find it really costs you a lot out of your pocket each time you move?

A—It has.

Q—What expenses do you find that are unusual when you have to move from one station to another?

A—Well, the housing, of course is quite expensive as we all know, and in our particular case in moving a trailer. Originally we were stationed and lived on the Army base, which did give us cheaper rent there. We did have cheaper rent there. But now, of course, we have to live in civilian courts and have inadequate facilities at times.

Q—You mentioned in moving that you had to pay to have the trailer towed. What do you do, do you just hire someone to pull the trailer?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Do you remember how much that costs?

28 Cents A Mile To Move

A—The first time it was 25 cents a mile; last time, I believe, it was 28 cents.

Q—28 cents a mile to move that trailer?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Gee, that is a tremendous expense. Thank you.

Mr. Bennett (D-Fla.)—Are there any other things that you would like to mention before this committee that you feel are points of irritation for service personnel and their wives?

A—Well, the insecurity of moving so frequently. Then also the points of irritation, I believe that the fellows—particularly in the hazardous, it doesn't pertain to us, but in the hazardous duty quite often the men are injured and their services are no longer considered in the Services, and they are discharged or practically tossed out with nothing to go on.

Q—You think the veterans compensation or the retirement pay are not sufficient?

A—At times I do, sir.

Q—Do you have any recommendation about how much higher you think they ought to be, or was it just a general impression?

A—It was just a general impression.

Mr. Kilday—Thank you, Mrs. Bell, you have been very helpful.

MRS. JOYCE BROCKMAN

Mr. Kilday—Now, Mrs. Brockman, what is your husband's name?

Mrs. Brockman—Edward Burt Brockman. He is a personnel man in the Navy.

Q—How long has he been in service?

A—Six and a half years.

Q—How many children do you have?

A—One and a half (Laughter).

Q—Most of us on the committee know exactly what you mean.

Mr. Wilson—How can you be sure about that fraction? (Laughter).

Mr. Kilday—Where do you live now?

A—We live in an apartment at Willston Apartment Center in Falls Church.

Q—And where is your husband's duty station?

A—At the Navy Annex in the Classification Department of Navy Personnel.

Q—Do you know what this bill would do for you?

A—I certainly do (Laughter).

Q—What does it propose?

A—Well, it would give us exactly $23.40 more a month, which is nice.

Q—That would be helpful?

Help To Buy Shoes

A—Very helpful. It will mean a savings account again which has been a thing of the past since we have been married; especially since our first baby arrived. It will mean we can go out and buy a pair of shoes once in a while without thinking of what the baby needs, which we haven't been able to.

Q—I don't want to disillusion you, but it is going to be a long time before that time arrives.

A—we are waiting. (Laughter).

Q—I don't mean for just those in the Navy; I mean for members of Congress also.

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Have you always during the time that you have been in the service had medical and dental care available to you?

No Dental Care

A—We have never had dental care available to us. Medical care has been available. I would like to see dental care available, especially now with the family. I know I, myself, need dental care and we have always had to put it off because there is something else to be done every payday. It hasn't been that we have been able to say "Well, next payday I will go to the dentist." Next payday the milk bill is a little bit extra; one of these days our teeth are going to fall out, I guess. But, of course, our children won't be neglected.

Q—At your present station where is medical care available to you?

A—Well, I go to the main Navy dispensary for checkups and then next month I will start going out to the hospital at Bethesda, for a checkup. And the baby will be born at Bethesda, but with our daughter it will be at the main Navy dispensary and it is nine miles to the dispensary from our apartment.

Q—How many stations have you been at?

A—Four in the last three and a half years.

Q—In three and a half years you have had four permanent changes of station?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you have medical care available at all of those stations?

A—Luckily, we didn't need it. I believe it was available, with the exception of San Francisco.

Q—Have you had ships store, commissary facilities available to you at all four stations?

A—We didn't use them at any but this last one because we were there for such a short time it would have taken longer to get our application in and get a commissary card back than it would to just go down to the corner store and buy the groceries we needed. I was in Alameda for almost a year, but my husband was at sea, and I didn't have the facilities to go to the commissary, and in San Diego we were only there for 10 weeks while he attended school.

Mr. Wilson (whose home district is San Diego)—What a pity. (Laughter)

Mr. Miller (D-Calif.)—Where was that first station?

A—Our first station was Great Lakes, Ill.

Q—You didn't have it available there?

A—It was available but we hardly moved into our apartment when they shipped him off to sea.

Q—What did you say about getting a commissary card? Was it delayed or something?

3 Months To Get Commissary Card

A—Well, when we applied for a commissary card here, Mr. Miller, it took us approximately four weeks from the time I signed the application before they sent us a verification and it took another two months before we got the commissary card.

Q—Mr. Chairman, if I may make an observation at this point, this is, I think, a very common complaint and I think it is something that you gentlemen over here (indicating Radm Grenfell, head of the Pentagon task force on pay) can take official cognizance of. I can show you lots of places where just in the administrative delay in getting these commissary cards, it has been one of the irritating things that you failed to touch on because it lands right smack back in your laps when it comes to the manner of causing part of this ferment. We have heard that everything is being done administratively to take care of the situation of fringe benefits, but this is one that I know personally has not been taken care of and I commend it to your thinking.

Mr. Wilson—She mentioned, Mr. Chairman, that she had not had any medical care prior to arriving here. I just wondered if your first child was born in a military hospital?

Mrs. Brockman—Yes, she was born a year ago last November at Bethesda.

Mr. Arends—But you still do not have dental care available?

A—No, sir.

Mr. Bennett—Is the commissary privilege a really worthwhile privilege to you?

Careful Budgeting

A—Well, it did cut down our grocery bill almost $30 a month. But it means very careful budgeting. I only go, usually twice a month, and it is almost an all-day affair when I do go. It means either getting a baby sitter or dragging her along and parking her in a nursery.

Q—How do you think the commissary privilege could be improved as a fringe benefit, outside of the question of the red tape, to get you on the list quickly?

A—I really couldn't say. I haven't thought too much about it. I appreciate going to the commissary. I enjoy going. I usually buy more than I would buy at the grocery store because of the prices. It is awfully crowded. But that is something you run into most any place.

Q—Is it cheaper generally?

A—It is cheaper, generally, yes.

Mr. Kilday—Anything further? Thank you, Mrs. Brockman. Glad to have you here.

Q—What is his specialty?

A—He is a motion picture cameraman.

Mr. Wilson—What branch of the service, please?

A—The Air Force.

Mr. Kilday—Air Force. Now, you do have government quarters?

A—No, sir.

Q—Do you rent?

Exorbitant Rent

A—No. We did, the first six months we were here, we rented and the rent was so exorbitant that we made every effort to buy a house rather than pay rent. So we have some equity in it.

Q—Of course, you have four children, six people. And it is pretty hard to rent for a family that size in the Washington area.

A—Yes, sir.

Q—And do you know what this bill would do for you?

A—Yes, sir, it would give us $28.39 more a month.

Q—Would that be a help?

A—Well, it would. It would almost pay my milk bill per month.

Q—That is a very practical subject.

A—The milk runs about 30-31 dollars a month. So it would help in that respect. Because, at the present time, I do baby sitting. At night, when my children are in bed, why, I sometimes go out and sit with other people's children to make ends meet.

Mr. Arends—What is your address? (Laughter) We have been having trouble.

Mr. Kilday—Have you at all times had medical and dental care available to you, Mrs. Stoughton?

Pulled Her Teeth But Couldn't Treat Them

A—No, sir. The dental care is a sore subject with me. Before we had the children I had to have some dental care, and I went with a toothache, and as long as I was there they could only give me emergency service. They would say, "Well, we can pull it out; we can't fill it, but we can pull it." At least, you don't have the toothache any more. So then, of course, I had quite a few extractions and I had to go to a civilian dentist to have some dentures made, so as far as I am concerned why—I have saved on the extractions, I guess, but it has been a sore subject with me.

And medical care, if you can spend two hours or more and keep your children under control, and wait around for a doctor, and sometimes they are out having coffee or something and your kids are running around getting restless, then they give you a jar of salve or a pill or two and say: okay, go home. I will say in favor of the Service, that having babies in the Service is very inexpensive. I think that my first child cost $10 and the other three cost about $5. So we saved quite a bit there.

Mr. Kilday—Have you had that service with each of your children?

A—Yes, I have. I have been very satisfied with it. They let you go home in two days, though, which is rather soon, and we couldn't afford to have any help and of course I didn't go back to bed, I just went home and started in with my daily routine.

Mr. Arends—I hope your husband is pretty handy around the house. (Laughter)

Mr. Wilson—Just one point, on this matter of buying a house. Did you husband use the GI bill?

A—Yes, he did.

New Housing Plan

Q—Are you aware of the fact that we passed a housing act last year that will give you a chance to buy a house under terms very much like the GI bill when you move to another station?

A—Yes, I think that will be to our advantage the next move that we make, if we can get a cash settlement out of the house that we have now. There are so many houses that GIs can get under no down payment, and we are tentatively thinking of Denver, very soon, and so we are wondering about that.

Q—When you use your GI bill you lose it, you don't have a chance to use it again, and under this bill that we passed last year for service people, when you have a permanent change of station you can buy a house under terms very much like the GI bill. I am surprised at the number of service people that aren't aware of that provision and I am glad that you do know it is possible because it will save you a great deal of money, I know.

A—While we are on the subject could I say something about this allowance, the $96, that is given?

Q—Basic allowance for quarters?

Heavy Charges in Renting

A—Yes. When we came here to Washington, we had the experience of the high cost of living. Well, we had to lease this place that we rented for six months until our house was ready to move into. And we had to put $100 down for the lease, then we had to pay $100 rent in advance, and then the gas company required a deposit of $35 and then the electric company, I think that was $5 or $10, something like that, and it was quite an outlay of money, plus we had to put $1000 down on our house. Of course, there are so many places now that you don't have to have a down payment. But it was quite an outlay of money, plus the expense of traveling. Of course, we only had one and a half children then, but I just wanted to say that I think that the $96 will help, it won't alleviate the situation.

Q—That extra amount will help pay some of these deposits when you have to move in, in your view?

A—Yes. We were selling furniture like mad. I sold my piano, trying to get cash that we didn't have. I imagine there are other families experiencing the same thing because you just don't have the extra to save and you get a little saved and something immediately comes along that takes it.

Mr. Blandford—What is your suggestion, Mrs. Stoughton, and I hope Admiral Grenfell is listening, too. Because I think you are suggesting this, that the dislocation allowance be paid as you move and not have to wait two or three months to get it after you move, you need the money when you move.

A—Yes, that is right. Of course, people in the Service do travel a lot, and like in our case, we have no permanent home address. It is wherever we are. Like we are in Virginia now, we pay taxes and vote in Virginia, and so forth. Of course, companies and real estate men aren't going to take chances with somebody who is a rolling stone, more or less; they want their cash deposit and then they feel safe.
